'Foeticide of honest effort'

'Before the eyes of the entire nation, Cong and its allies have committed the 'foeticide' of this honest endeavor by blocking the Women's Reservation Bill'

NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi lambasted the Congress and its allies in his address to the nation on the Women's Reservation Bill on Saturday, saying they committed what he called "foeticide of this honest endeavour".

"Before the eyes of the entire nation, the Congress and its allies have committed the foeticide of this honest endeavour. Parties like the Congress, the Samajwadi Party, and the DMK are the perpetrators of this act. They have committed an offence against the Constitution and against the womanhood of this country," he said.

The Centre on Friday couldn't pass the bill required to amend the Women's Reservation Bill in the Lok Sabha. The Centre needed a two-thirds majority to get the Constitution (131st Amendment) Bill, 2026, passed, but fell short of the mark. The proposed legislation saw 298 MPs voting in its favour and 230 voting against.

The government intended to increase the Lok Sabha's strength from 543 to a maximum of 850 and provide a 33 per cent reservation to women. It moved three interlinked bills on Thursday in the Lok Sabha. After the Constitution Bill failed the Parliament test, it didn't put the other two bills to a vote.

Why does it trouble DMK, Congress to see ordinary women rise? These one-family parties want power to remain confined within their own families.
—Narendra Modi, PM

We defeated in Parliament, a bill in which delimitation was hidden; we defeated it to defend the idea of India, which is a union of states, and every single state should have a voice.
—Rahul Gandhi, LoP LS

MODI APOLOGISES TO 'MOTHERS' OF COUNTRY

"Today I'm here to discuss an important issue, especially for the women of this country. Every citizen of this country is witnessing how women's progress has stalled... Despite our best efforts, we haven't succeeded. Amendments could not be made in the Nari Shakti Adhiniyam (Women's Reservation Bill). And I apologise to all the mothers and the nation for this," he said. He said the women of the country suffered because of the Congress, the DMK, the TMC and the Samajwadi Party's "selfish politics".

'Noble effort derailed...'

PM Modi said his government's Women's Reservation Bill was a "noble effort" that was "derailed" by the Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (DMK) and the Indian National Congress (INC), accusing them of turning it into a "target of hatred and petty politics".

Addressing a poll rally in Coimbatore, the Prime Minister, while targeting the ruling DMK in Tamil Nadu and the Congress over the Bill's defeat in the Lok Sabha on Friday, asked, "Why does it trouble DMK, Congress to see ordinary women rise?"

He said he had personally appealed to opposition parties to support the Bill and had even offered to give them credit, adding, "I only wanted sisters from ordinary families to come to Parliament and Assemblies in good numbers." "But unfortunately, this noble effort got derailed. DMK, Congress and their allies made it a target of hatred and petty politics," he charged.

MODI FIRES ON Opposition

- Women's quota a '40-year pending right', honest effort for 2029 LS polls
- We may not have gotten 66% votes to see the Bill through, but we have blessings of 100% of India's women
- Will get more chances to pass Bill, resolve for women intact
- 'Bill not about credit'; Oppn stuck to 'lies'
- 'Negative politics' of Cong hurt development
- Cong an 'anti-reform' party, opposes every decision
- Dynastic parties fear that if women get empowered, their leadership will be threatened
- Parties opposing women's quota fear leadership shift to women
- Cong, SP, TMC, DMK delayed women's quota with 'excuses'
- Women's quota to boost representation, role in growth from 2029
- Opposition relied on lies to derail the Bill, tried to mislead people
- Oppn 'celebrated' blocking women's quota, denied rightful place
- Women may forget many things, but they never forget their humiliation

Blocked to defend 'idea of India': Rahul Gandhi

CHENNAI: Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Saturday said the opposition parties defeated the delimitation bill in the Parliament on Friday to defend the "idea of India". Addressing a poll rally at Ponneri here, he said the BJP-led government at the Centre brought a new bill on April 16, and said they were trying to pass the women's bill, which he said was passed in 2023. "In the so-called Women's Bill, delimitation was hidden. The idea was to reduce Tamil Nadu's representation in the Union of India... the delimitation move by BJP was to weaken the strength of southern states, small states, north eastern states," he alleged. "We defeated in Parliament, a bill in which delimitation was hidden; we defeated it to defend the idea of India." Rahul added that India that is Bharat, is a union of states, and every single state should have a voice, be free to express itself, and protect its tradition.

Iranian guards fire on Indian tankers in Hormuz

TEHRAN/NEW DELHI

Two Indian-flagged ships were hit in the Strait of Hormuz on Saturday, shortly after Iran's military announced the closure of the waterway over the US' plan to continue its naval blockade of Iranian ports.

Official sources said a convoy of 14 India-bound ships carrying crude oil and gas was stopped by the Iranian Revolutionary Guard Corps after firing at two of the vessels while they were transiting the Strait of Hormuz. Following the firing, 13 of the ships returned to different locations in the Persian Gulf.

Gunboats of Iran's Revolutionary Guards Corp fired on a tanker in the strait northeast of Oman, the UK Maritime Trade Operations Centre (UKMTO) said in an online statement. "Tanker and crew are reported safe. Authorities are investigating."

The UKMTO said later that it also received a report of a container ship in the same area "being hit by an unknown projectile which caused damage to some of the containers" but no fire.

Sources said two Iranian gunboats approached the targeted tanker and opened fire without warning. The gunboats intercepted the vessel around 37 kilometres northeast of Oman, prompting other vessels in the convoy to turn back without completing the crossing. The incident was reported in waters between the Qeshm and Larak islands.

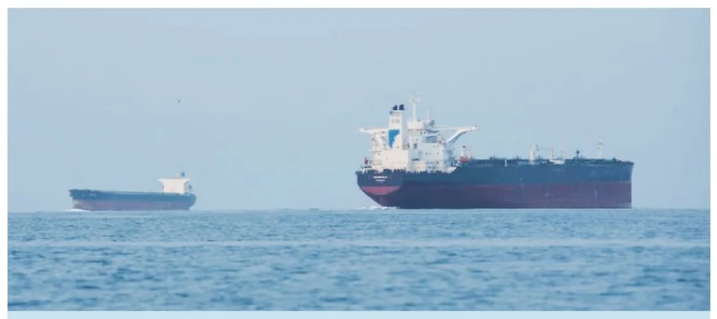
As per, TankerTrackers.com, the vessels include an Indian-flagged super tanker, carrying 2 million barrels of Iraqi oil. Following the attacks, the tankers reversed course in the strait, the vessel-tracker said.

One of the vessels hit was an Indian-flagged ship carrying crude oil. A window pane was broken after bullets fired by the IRGC struck the vessel, forcing it to halt its journey and turn back. The extent of damage to the second vessel was not immediately known, but it too returned.

The Indian Ministry of External Affairs is yet to comment on the incident.

The incidents came shortly after Iran's Supreme Leader, Mojtaba Khamenei, in a statement, warned that Tehran's Navy was ready to defeat US forces in the Strait of Hormuz.

In a statement carried on his Telegram channel, Khamenei, who has not been seen in public since before the start of the war, said Iran's "brave navy stands ready to make the enemies taste the bitterness of new defeats."



ANOTHER TANKER CROSSES HORMUZ SAFELY

However, another Indian-flagged ship carrying crude oil for the Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Limited successfully crossed the Strait of Hormuz and is now heading towards India, sources said. According to sources, India summoned Iranian envoy Mohammad Fathali and registered strong protest over the attacks.

The incident came shortly after Iran's Supreme Leader, Mojtaba Khamenei, in a statement, warned that Tehran's Navy was ready to defeat US forces in the Strait of Hormuz.

India summons Iran envoy over firing on vessels

NEW DELHI

India has raised serious concerns with Iran after firing incidents involving Indian-flagged vessels in the Strait of Hormuz, stepping up diplomatic engagement as tensions in the crucial shipping lane intensify. The Iranian Ambassador in New Delhi was called in for a meeting with the Foreign Secretary this evening, where India conveyed its concern over the shooting incident earlier in the day involving two Indian-flagged ships. The Foreign Secretary stressed the importance India attaches to the safety of merchant shipping and mariners, and referred to earlier instances where Iran had facilitated safe passage for India-bound vessels. He urged the Iranian side to resume efforts to ensure the safe movement of ships through the Strait at the earliest. The Iranian Ambassador assured that India's concerns would be conveyed to authorities in Tehran.

24-year-old constable dies in bike accident

AFZALPUR

A 24-year-old police constable Dhareppa died as the motorbike he was riding went out of control and toppled on the road while traveling near Gobbur B village on Saturday morning.

Dhareppa, learned to be a resident of Shirawala village, was reportedly traveling back home to the village from Kalaburagi when the accident occurred and the bike fell on the road. The police constable, who was grievously injured in the accident, is said to have died on the spot.

Aland Deputy Superintendent of Police Thammaraya Patil, Circle Inspector Lakhan Masaguppi and Devalagangapura Sub-inspector Sangeetha Shinde visited the accident spot and inspected it.

A case has been registered and investigation is underway.

Iran cannot 'blackmail us' with Strait threats: Trump

WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump on Saturday warned Iran not to "blackmail" Washington with its flip-flopping on the fate of the Strait of Hormuz, after Tehran declared the strategic waterway once again closed.

"We're talking to them. They wanted to close up the strait again -- you know, as they've been doing for years -- and they can't blackmail us," Trump said at a White House event.

Trump said there would be "some information" about Iran later in the day, adding: "We're taking a tough stand."

Iran's military on Saturday declared the strait, through which about one-fifth of the world's crude and liquefied natural gas normally passes, was once again closed, a day after saying it was open.

Tehran said it was responding to a continued US blockade of Iranian ports, calling it a violation of their ceasefire, while Supreme Leader Mojtaba Khamenei said Iran's navy was ready to inflict "new bitter defeats" on its enemies.

Shipping sources said at least two vessels reported coming under fire while trying to transit the waterway.

India approves $1.4 bn maritime insurance pool

NEW DELHI

As conflict in West Asia disrupts crude and gas supply chains due to reduced vessel movement linked to insurance constraints, the government has approved the creation of the Bharat Maritime Insurance Pool (BMI Pool) with a sovereign guarantee of ₹12,980 crore.

The pool will run for 10 years and can be extended by a further five years, Information and Broadcasting Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw said.

As per the government, the objective of the BMI Pool is to ensure uninterrupted and affordable marine insurance for India's shipping sector, while also reducing dependence on foreign insurers, particularly global groups such as the International Group of P&I Clubs, which currently dominate the maritime insurance market.

WHY BMI POOL?

Aims to establish a domestic maritime insurance pool aimed at safeguarding trade amid global uncertainties.

The pool will operate for 10 years with a possible five-year extension.

The insurance pool will cover all maritime risks, including hull and machinery, cargo and war-related damages.

Recently, conflict in West Asia has disrupted the movement of cargoes in and around the Strait of Hormuz, with many shipowners halting operations. Insurance companies have also become cautious, with some unwilling to provide coverage due to heightened war-related risks.

According to the government, the BMI Pool will function as a collective of Indian insurance companies working together to provide marine insurance. Under the new framework, multiple domestic insurers will combine their financial strength to form a shared pool.

NEED OF THE HOUR

CM PITCHES FOR SC BENCH IN SOUTH INDIA

BENGALURU

At a time when courts continue to struggle with case backlog and questions around access, Karnataka Chief Minister Siddaramaiah has pushed for a structural change, calling for a Supreme Court bench in south India.

Speaking at the 22nd Biennial State-level Conference of Judicial Officers, he said the distance from Delhi often makes it harder for people in the southern states to approach the top court.

"There is also a strong and compelling need to improve accessibility to the highest court of the land. The establishment of a Supreme Court bench in South India would go a long way in ensuring justice," he said.

There is also a strong and compelling need to improve accessibility to the highest court of the land. The establishment of a Supreme Court bench in South India would go a long way in ensuring justice.
—Siddaramaiah, CM

Siddaramaiah said the legal system is entering a phase where technology will shape how cases are handled. "We stand today at a defining juncture where law and technology are no longer separate domains, but interconnected forces shaping governance, rights, and the very nature of justice itself."

He spoke about the promise of AI but also pointed to the risks. "Artificial Intelligence is emerging as a transformative force that challenges how we interpret evidence, how we understand facts, and how decisions are arrived at. It offers immense promise, aiding faster legal research, improved case management, and the possibility of reducing pendency through intelligent systems," he said.

At the same time, he flagged concerns. "Yet, it also raises profound concerns. Algorithmic bias can undermine the guarantee of equality before law. Opaque systems may weaken the doctrine of reasoned decisions, which lies at the heart of our judicial process," he said.

He stressed that technology cannot be allowed to influence judicial independence. "Judicial independence, which is the cornerstone of our democracy, must be preserved not only from external pressures but also from subtle technological dependence," he said. "The authority of a judge must never be overshadowed by the authority of an algorithm."

On delays in courts, he said technology alone will not fix the problem. "Pendency of cases continues to be a serious concern that affects the timely delivery of justice. While technology can provide tools to address this, it must be complemented by systemic reforms through strengthening infrastructure, increasing judicial capacity, and modernising court processes," he said.

He also pointed to new challenges emerging from AI-generated material. "The emergence of AI-generated evidence presents new challenges for our legal system," he said. "Deepfakes, synthetic data, and machine-generated content compel us to revisit established doctrines relating to admissibility, burden of proof, and authenticity."

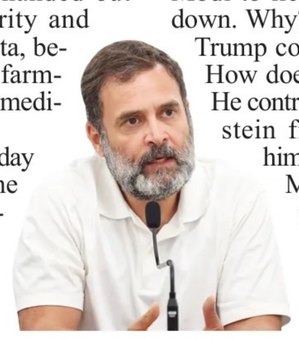
'If Trump tells Modi to jump...' Rahul at TN rally

RANIPET

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Saturday alleged that Prime Minister Narendra Modi was being "controlled" by US President Donald Trump and that the PM wanted the AIADMK to capture power so that he could control Tamil Nadu Chief Minister.

Also, he claimed that the prime minister "handed out our energy security and gave away our data, besides selling our farmers and small and medium industries."

"You saw yesterday (in Parliament) the face of Prime Minister Narendra Modi completely lacking confidence," Rahul said on the delimitation bill. "He (PM) could not even face the opposition. He was sitting sideways. And the reason is, he is controlled by the United States. He signed the India-US deal that sold our country out," Rahul said while addressing an election rally here. He further said, "Today, if Donald Trump tells Modi to jump, Modi jumps. If Donald Trump tells Modi to lie down, Modi lies down. Why? Because Donald Trump controls Modi fully. How does he control him? He controls through the Epstein files. He controls him because he knows Modi's financial systems and understands Modi's link with Adani," the Congress leader alleged.



MERCURY ON THE MARCH IN APRIL

Mysuru district sizzles under rising heatwave

SHYAM SUNDAR VATTAM
MYSURU

Mysuru district is witnessing a sharp and steady rise in temperatures over the past three days, painting a worrying picture of intensifying summer heat across the region. From taluk headquarters to rural belts, the mercury is climbing relentlessly, with several areas nearing the 40°C mark.

Leading the heat chart is Heggadadevanakote (H.D.Kote), where the maximum temperature touched a scorching 39.6°C on April 18, maintaining a consistent high from April 16. Close behind are T. Narasipura (39.4°C) and Nanjangud (39.3°C), both reflecting a persistent upward trend. Saraguru and Periyapatna too recorded steep highs of around 38°C, indicating that no part of the district is spared from the heat surge.

Mysuru City feels the heat

Particularly concerning is the situation in Mysuru city, where temperatures have steadily climbed from 37.8°C on April 16 to 38.2°C on April 18. While the rise may appear gradual, the sustained high temperatures combined with increasing humidity levels—peaking at 77%—are making conditions extremely uncomfortable for residents.

The nights are offering little relief, with minimum temperatures also on the rise. Mysuru recorded a minimum of 24.4°C on April 18, up from 23.5°C two days earlier, contributing to warmer nights and reduced cooling periods.

Humidity levels across taluks are amplifying the heat stress. Hunsur and Krishnarajanagar reported high relative humidity levels of 83% and 85% respectively on April 18, making the heat feel more intense and oppressive. Even relatively drier taluks like Periyapatna are not far behind, with humidity hovering above 65%.

Across the board, most taluks show a clear pattern: rising daytime temperatures and increasing nighttime warmth. This combination is a classic indicator of building heatwave conditions. Hunsur, for instance, saw a sharp spike from 33.7°C to 37.7°C within a day earlier this week, highlighting volatile heat swings.

What Lies Ahead?

With forecasts indicating moderate to high heat risk in the coming days, residents are advised to take precautions. Avoiding peak afternoon exposure, staying hydrated, and monitoring vulnerable populations like the elderly and children will be crucial.

As Mysuru braces for hotter days, the message is clear: summer has tightened its grip, and the mercury shows no signs of backing down anytime soon.

No disruption in Gas availability and supply: DC Reddy

MYSURU

Deputy Commissioner G. Lakshmikanth Reddy has clarified that there is no scarcity of LPG in the district and appealed to the citizens not to become panic.

In a press release here on Saturday, he said due to public concern and lack of clear information regarding LPG cylinder availability, a large number of consumers have been gathering at gas agencies and warehouses. This has led to congestion and confusion at these locations.

At present, there is no shortage or disruption in the availability and supply of domestic LPG cylinders in the district. The consumers should not panic or crowd gas agencies for refill bookings. Instead, they are advised to use the online booking system.

No power supply tomorrow

MYSURU

Due to the installation of an underground cable on the 11 kV Kannadambe power line originating from the 66/11 kV R.K. Nagar power distribution center under the Kuvempunagar subdivision, there will be a power outage on April 20 from 10:00 AM to 5:30 PM.

Areas affected by the power outage include Kuvempunagar Complex, Nrupatunga Road, KHB Layout (1st to 4th Stage), Giri's area, E & F Block surroundings, Bullet showroom area, and nearby localities, according to a statement issued by the Executive Engineer of CESC, V.V. Mohalla Division.

Minority leaders criticise Congress action against MLCs; seek revocation

MYSURU

Adding to the growing dissent within sections of the minority community, the President of Ula-ma-E-Mysore, Hazarat Mufti Syed Tajuddin Saheb, has strongly criticised the Congress party's decision to remove MLC K. Abdul Jabbar from its primary membership and strip Naseer Ahmed of his post as Political Secretary to the Chief Minister.

The disciplinary action follows allegations of anti-party activities during the recently concluded by-election to the Davangere South Assembly constituency.

Addressing media persons at MDJA here on Saturday, Mufti Tajuddin Saheb termed the Congress move as "hasty and inconsistent," pointing out that the party usually follows due procedure by issuing show-cause notices before initiating action against its leaders.

Such abrupt decisions could send a wrong message to minority communities, which, he noted, had overwhelmingly supported the Congress during the 2023 Assembly elections. "Instead of recognising and rewarding leaders from minority communities with significant responsibilities, removing them from key positions raises questions about fairness," he remarked.

Highlighting the community's trust in Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, Mufti Tajuddin Saheb urged him to reconsider the developments carefully and demanded that the action taken against both leaders should be withdrawn and that they should be reinstated to their respective positions. The statement reflects rising unease among sections of minority leaders, who view the episode as a setback to their representation within the party.

CM SIDDARAMAIAH PRACTICING 'DYNASTY POLITICS', ALLEGES FORMER MINISTER MAHESH

MYSURU

Referring to the statement by Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's son and MLC Dr Yathindra Siddaramaiah that his father will remain CM for five years, former minister and senior Janata Dal (Secular) leader Sa. Ra. Mahesh said that it was an internal matter of their party.

"You may remain in power as long as you wish, but conduct elections to the Zilla Panchayat, Taluk Panchayat, City Corporation, and Gram Panchayats during your tenure. Are you avoiding elections out of fear that the JD(S) and BJP have united and you may not come to power? Even when we were separate, you did not gain power—how will you now?" he questioned, while addressing a news conference here on Friday.

Criticizing claims of socialism, he said, if Siddaramauah calls himself a socialist, how can power remain only with him and his son, Dr Yatindra ? Give opportunities to others who have worked for the party. Elections must be held so that party workers, irrespective of affiliation, can become members of Zilla Panchayat, Taluk Panchayat, and City Corporation. Avoiding elections out of fear of losing is nothing but a murder of democracy. If he truly believes that victory and defeat are part of elections, conduct them immediately, he urged.

MLCs C.N. Manjegowda and Vivekananda, district president Ashwin Kumar, city president SBM Manju, former mayor R. Lingappa, and leaders Cheluvegowda, H.K. Ramu, Prema Shankaregowda, among others, were present.

Valedictory in Chamundeshwari

A programme will also be organized in Varuna constituency on May 13 under the leadership of their candidate Abhishek. Meetings will be held in Nanjangud as well, and the valedictory function will take place in Chamundeshwari constituency. H.D. Kumaraswamy will participate, and the convention will be led by loyal party workers and leaders. "Those who are in the party will attend the programme; those who are not will not. The high command has already made this clear. There is no need to repeat it," he said, indirectly indicating that G.T. Devegowda is no longer in the party.

JD(S) Itself Is a Family

Responding to Dr Yathindra Siddaramaiah's claim that theirs is not a family-run party, Mahesh questioned, "Who are the members of the Ashraya Committee? Who became MLC? Why was a name removed from Mysuru voters' list and added in Bengaluru to become a BDA member? Were there no loyal party workers? Whose is family politics in this case?" "Our party is small, not a national party like yours. For us, the party itself is a family. Kumaraswamy brings in people from outside, gives them power, and they later abandon him. Instead of being betrayed by such people, we prefer to give opportunities to our own family members," he said.

TWO-DAY SOUTH INDIA CONFERENCE INAUGURATED IN MYSURU

MYSURU

A two-day conference of the heads of United Religions Initiative (URI) branches from South Indian states was grandly inaugurated at the International Youth Hostel in Gokulam locality of the city.

The event was jointly organized by Credit-I and the Rotary Club of Seva.

Presiding over the conference, Swami Mahipalanandaji, Head of Ramakrishna Vidyashala under Ramakrishna Ashrama, said that Swami Vivekananda had, many years ago in his Chicago address, emphasized the importance of respecting and loving all religions. He noted that India is a country that embraces and respects all faiths, where religions like Buddhism, Sikhism, and Hinduism have flourished together in harmony and peace. He stressed the need to continue nurturing such unity.

Retired IGP Arakesh, who inaugurated the programme, said that conflicts and differences among religions are largely man-made. He pointed out that all religions advocate goodness and their practices are inherently positive, but it is the followers who sometimes create confusion and discord. He added that excessive religiosity and political motives have led to unrest and mutual hostility in society, which is also reflected in caste divisions.

He recalled that as early as the 12th century, Basavanna preached equality and the idea that the human body itself is a temple, with God residing within. Therefore, when God exists within us, there should be no room for hatred or conflict, he said.

Prof. Abraham Karikkam, Dr. C.N. Raju, Dr. M. Varsha, Kerala's K.G. Mathai Kutty, Prof. M.S. Manonmani, Dr. S. Divakar, G.C. Veeraraje Urs, Muthanna, Prof. M. Mahadevappa, Prameela and others were present on the occasion.

"Union ministers are planning shifting Mysore Goods Shed to Pandavapura"

MYSURU

KPCC Spokesperson M. Lakshman has alleged that Union Ministers H.D. Kumaraswamy and V. Somanna are plotting to shift the railway goods shed in the city to Pandavapura in Mandya district.

Speaking at a press conference here on Fruday, he warned that if the process of relocating the shed is initiated, a massive protest will be launched.

Lakshman expressed regret that MP Yaduveer Krishnadatta Chamaraja Wadiyar, a member of the erstwhile royal family, has reportedly given consent for shifting the railway goods shed built during the reign of the Mysuru Maharajas.

The railway goods shed, constructed in 1882 over an area of about ten acres, supports nearly 10,000 people. Every day, more than 600 truckloads are handled for loading and unloading operations. According to official data from the Railways, the shed facilitates an annual business turnover of around ₹4,900 crore. The people wanted to know the logic behind shifting such a major commercial hub to another district.

Lakshman alleged that the relocation is being planned to make space for a halt of the Vande Bharat train at the existing goods shed site. It was unreasonable to shift such a large commercial facility just to accommodate a single train stoppage and it is being conspired by Kumaraswamy and Somanna. Union Minister Kumaraswamy instead of bringing new projects from the Centre, he is attempting to shift an existing railway facility to his hometown. Where the people of Mysuru would go if even Chamundi Hill were to be relocated in the future, he added.

He said that meetings have already been held with labourers and communities' dependent on the goods shed, and warned that in the coming days, protests would escalate to the extent of shutting down the railway station.

Mysuru City Congress President R. Murthy, District President Dr. B.J. Vijay Kumar, and party leaders Shivanna, B.M. Ramu, Gopinath, Girish, Mahesh, and Rahul were present at the press conference.

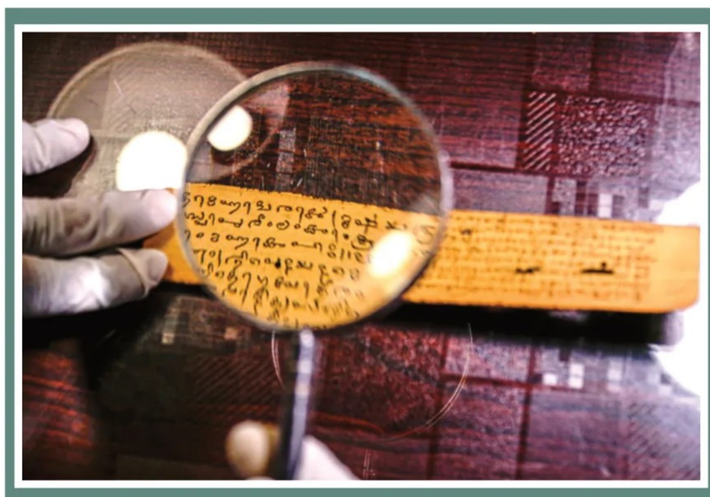
On this occasion, Karnataka State Open University (KSOU) Vice-Chancellor Prof. Sharanappa V. Halse, Raghavan, head of Raghulal Company, temple administrative officer N. Srinivas, and several others were present.



GUARDIANS OF WISDOM
Mysuru's Monumental Mission to Preserve Ancient Manuscripts

SHYAM SUNDAR VATTAM
MYSURU

In a remarkable blend of heritage, science and dedication, an ambitious project to conserve and digitize India's priceless manuscript legacy is unfolding at the Oriental Research Institute, under the University of Mysore. Spearheaded by Professor (Dr.) Rohitha Eswer of the Department of Ancient History and Archaeology and Museology at Maharaja's College, this initiative is quietly rewriting the future of India's past.

Supported and coordinated by The Mythic Society, Bengaluru, under the leadership of its President V. Nagaraj and Secretary Dr. S. Ravi, the project operates under a formal Memorandum of Understanding between the two institutions. With Padma Shree Subbaraman as mentor, the effort reflects a rare confluence of scholarly excellence and cultural commitment.

Echoes of Antiquity on Palm Leaves

Palm-leaf manuscripts, among the oldest writing media in India, carry centuries of intellectual, spiritual and artistic traditions. Used extensively across South and Southeast Asia—from Nepal and Sri Lanka to Thailand and Indonesia—these manuscripts were crafted from dried leaves of the Palmyra and Talipot palms. Each leaf, inscribed with ink and bound with string, formed part of a fragile yet enduring record of civilization.

Yet, time is unforgiving. These manuscripts, vulnerable to insects, humidity and decay, often survive only a few centuries unless carefully preserved and recopied. Today, their survival depends on urgent scientific intervention.

A Treasure Trove in Mysuru

Founded during the reign of Maharaja Chamaraja Wodeyar, the Oriental Research Institute stands as a custodian of extraordinary knowledge.

Housed in the historic Jubilee Hall built in 1887, the institute holds an estimated 70,000 works, including 14,448 palm-leaf bundles and 7,648 paper manuscript bundles.

The scale of preservation achieved so far is staggering. Over 13 lakh palm-leaf folios have been conserved, resulting in more than 26 lakh digitized images—each meticulously processed and enhanced. In parallel, paper manuscripts have also undergone preventive conservation and digitization, adding over 12 lakh images to the growing digital archive.

What sets this project apart is its innovative fusion of traditional wisdom and modern conservation science. Long before formal institutional backing, Dr. Rohitha Eswer initiated conservation efforts using self-funding and locally available resources, while training students in archaeology and museology.

Today, the process has evolved into a highly structured workflow. Manuscripts are carefully retrieved, fumigated in one of India's largest dedicated chambers—capable of handling 80,000 folios at a time—and then cleaned using soft brushes and specialized solvents. After drying, lemongrass oil is applied to rejuvenate the leaves, followed by carbon black treatment to enhance legibility.

Each stage is governed by strict quality control, ensuring that no detail is overlooked. Even the cleaning cloths undergo iodine testing to eliminate starch residues that could harm the manuscripts. The final step involves high-resolution digitization, metadata creation, and meticulous editing, making the manuscripts ready for global access.

Innovation Driven by Necessity

Recognizing the urgency posed by rapid deterioration, the team has continually refined its methods. New chemical compositions for fumigation, improved solvents for cleaning, and customized procedures tailored to the diverse textures of palm leaves from across India have significantly accelerated the conservation process.

These innovations were shaped through rigorous experimentation and expert consultations, particularly with Padma Shree Subbaraman, a retired Superintending Chief from the Archaeological Survey of India's Department of Chemistry.

Beyond Preservation: A Social Mission

While the project's primary goal is safeguarding knowledge, its impact extends far beyond archives and laboratories. It has become a platform for training young archaeologists through internships, equipping them with hands-on expertise in conservation science.

Equally significant is its role in empowering women. The initiative actively recruits and trains women—especially sole breadwinners—providing them with sustainable employment and specialized skills. This unique blend of heritage preservation and social upliftment makes the project a model for inclusive development.

At its core, the project aligns with a larger vision: making India's manuscript heritage accessible to all. Through digitization, these ancient texts—once confined to fragile leaves—are being transformed into a permanent, open-source repository for scholars, researchers and the public.

Rare works, including classics like Kautilya's Arthashastra, have already been conserved and digitized, ensuring their survival for generations to come. The initiative also aims to expand its reach by collecting manuscripts from across the country and raising public awareness about their cultural significance.

A Legacy in the Making

What began as a voluntary effort driven by a sense of national responsibility has grown into a landmark project of cultural preservation. Remarkably, no professional remuneration has been charged for the work—underscoring a deep commitment to safeguarding India's ancient knowledge systems.

Since the formal commencement of the project on May 4, 2022, it has not only preserved millions of fragile folios but also ignited a renewed appreciation for India's intellectual heritage.

In the quiet halls of Mysuru's Oriental Research Institute, history is not just being remembered—it is being rescued, revitalized and reborn for the digital age.

TRUST CONTINUES TO QUENCH THIRST OF BIRDS AND ANIMALS

MYSURU

Sri Krishnarajendra Co-Operative Bank President Basavaraj Basappa said that providing water to protect living beings is a shared responsibility that must be strengthened.

In view of the scorching summer, the KMPK Trust has been conducting a compassionate initiative for the past 15 days, placing water troughs and bowls filled with water and food for birds and animals along major roads in Mysuru city. Continuing this humanitarian effort, the office-bearers of the trust carried on the campaign on Saturday as well.

Basavaraj Basappa, who participated in the campaign by offering water to birds and animals, praised the KMPK Trust for its consistent service over the years, calling it truly commendable. He urged everyone to place bowls or plates filled with water and food in available spaces or hang them on tree branches so that animals and birds can quench their thirst during the intense heat.

He emphasized that the environment and agriculture share a deep, inseparable bond. During summer, it becomes extremely difficult for birds to find water and food, and they struggle for every drop just like humans. "In summer, a drop of water is as precious as nectar," he said.

On the occasion, KMPK Charitable Trust President Vikram Iyengar, S.N. Rajesh, Naveen KMPK, and others were present.

SILENCE BEFORE THE STORM?

CM Siddaramaiah's quiet sparks unease in Cong ranks

SHYAM SUNDAR VATTAM
MYSURU

In the vibrant yet volatile theatre of Karnataka politics, silence can sometimes speak louder than speeches. Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, known for his assertive leadership and vocal defence of his supporters, now finds himself at the centre of a growing political storm—this time, for saying nothing at all.

The recent suspension of Congress MLC K Abdul Jabbar and the removal of another minority leader Nasir Ahmed from the post of Political Secretary to the Chief Minister have triggered ripples across the party. What has truly startled party workers and observers alike is not the action itself, but the Chief Minister's stoic silence.

Within the Congress corridors, whispers have grown louder—has Siddaramaiah stepped back, or is he being edged out?

At the heart of this unfolding drama stands Deputy Chief Minister and KPCC President D. K. Shivakumar, widely perceived as the man calling the shots. Party insiders suggest that Shivakumar is systematically tightening his grip, even if it means sidelining those loyal to Siddaramaiah. The actions against minority Muslim legislators—long considered a core support base of the party—have only deepened this perception.

Traditionally, Siddaramaiah has been seen as a protector of minority interests, especially Muslim legislators who have stood firmly with him. But the lack of resistance in the cases of Abdul K and Nasir Ahmed has left many disillusioned.

"We stood with the party in its toughest times, and today we feel abandoned," said a senior Muslim community leader, his voice tinged with frustration.

"Selective action against our leaders sends a very wrong message. Silence at the top only makes it worse," remarked another.

The tension escalates further with reports that Shivakumar has now set his sights on Housing and Minority Welfare Minister Zameer

Ahmed Khan, a staunch Siddaramaiah loyalist. The alleged trigger: Khan's conduct during the Davangere bypoll campaign. Shivakumar has publicly expressed displeasure and is reportedly contemplating disciplinary action—fueling speculation of a deeper internal power struggle.

This unfolding saga comes at a critical juncture. The Congress party's resounding victory in 2023 was powered significantly by the support of the Muslim community, alongside its much-publicised five guarantees. The community has long been regarded as the party's traditional vote bank—its backbone in many constituencies.

Now, that very backbone appears shaken.

"If this continues, the consequences will be serious. We are watching everything carefully," warned another community representative, hinting at possible political repercussions.

Adding to the intrigue, senior Congress leader K. N. Rajanna has openly questioned the Chief Minister's silence. "What has happened to Siddaramaiah's authority within the party?" he asked, echoing a question many are now afraid to voice aloud.

Political observers see this as the calm before a potential storm. The simmering discontent among minority legislators and loyalists could erupt at any moment.

"They are waiting for the right time. When they strike back, it will be dramatic," noted a seasoned political analyst.

As Karnataka watches closely, one question lingers in the air—Is this silence a strategy, a compulsion, or the beginning of a political shift?

Only time will reveal whether this quietude is a pause… or a prelude to a thunderous climax.

RESIDENTS PROTEST OVER MUNICIPAL INACTION ISSUE

Women stage protest over unresolved e-account application delays

DEVANAHALLI

In a significant display of public dissatisfaction, a group of women staged a protest outside the Vijayapura Municipality office in Devanahalli taluk, Bengaluru, Karnataka, highlighting prolonged administrative delays and unresolved civic grievances. The demonstration was directed against the Chief Officer of Vijayapura Municipality, Satyanarayana, and his staff, accusing them of negligence and failure to address essential public service matters over an extended period.

According to the protestors, their repeated applications for an electronic account facility have remained pending for nearly two years without any meaningful progress or official response. The lack of action from the municipal authorities has caused frustration among residents who depend on timely administrative support for basic civic and financial services. The women expressed that despite multiple follow-ups and formal requests, the issue has not been resolved, leaving them without access to essential municipal services.

The protest also raised concerns regarding alleged refusal or failure by municipal officials to appropriately handle tax-related matters over the past two years. Residents claimed that such administrative inaction has created confusion and disrupted routine civic processes, affecting the overall efficiency of local governance. They demanded immediate intervention and accountability from higher authorities to ensure that municipal responsibilities are carried out in a transparent and timely manner.

The demonstration in front of the municipal office attracted attention from passers-by and local residents, who expressed solidarity with the protestors. The group called for urgent corrective measures, including the clearance of pending applications and improved responsiveness from municipal staff. The protest concluded peacefully, but residents warned that further action may follow if their grievances continue to be ignored.

Neighbor Affair Leads to Deadly Murder Plot

Police uncover staged accident behind secret relationship and killing plot

HOSKOTE TALUK

Authorities in Bangalore are investigating a suspected murder case involving a woman and her neighbor, who allegedly plotted to kill a man and stage the incident as an accident. The case has drawn significant attention due to its alleged premeditation and the deceptive manner in which the crime was reportedly concealed as an unintended mishap.

According to investigators, the woman was not married and had developed a close personal relationship with a man living in the adjacent house. Over time, this relationship reportedly evolved into a secret affair. Police believe this connection became the foundation of a conspiracy targeting a third individual who was perceived as an obstacle to their continued association. Officials suggest that emotional involvement and personal motives may have contributed to the planning of the alleged crime.

Officials said the suspects allegedly organized a late-night gathering, presenting it as a casual social meeting. The victim was reportedly invited under misleading circumstances and arrived without suspicion. Investigators believe that during this gathering, the victim was incapacitated or placed in a vulnerable condition, allowing the accused individuals to carry out their alleged plan without immediate resistance or intervention from others present.

After the incident, the scene was reportedly arranged to resemble a tragic accident. Early observations and initial local accounts briefly supported the possibility of an unintentional death. However, responding officers identified inconsistencies at the location, including irregular physical evidence and contradictions in witness statements. These early concerns prompted authorities to treat the case as suspicious rather than accidental from the outset.

A special investigation unit was later assigned to the case. Through a detailed review of forensic findings and structured interviews with individuals connected to the incident, authorities identified significant gaps in the accident narrative. These findings indicated that the situation may have been carefully staged to mislead investigators and delay the discovery of the actual motive behind the death.

Police sources confirmed that the accused pair reportedly attempted to maintain normal daily routines following the incident in an effort to avoid raising suspicion. However, behavioral patterns, communication records, and digital evidence reportedly contributed to increasing doubts among investigators. This combination of factors ultimately led to intensified questioning and a broader analysis of their movements before and after the incident.

Forensic analysis played a decisive role in shifting the direction of the investigation. Experts reportedly found evidence that did not align with an accidental death scenario, strengthening suspicions of a preplanned homicide.

Controversy Erupts Over Legislator's Remarks, Leaders Demand Resignation

GADAG

A fresh political controversy has emerged in Gadag following remarks allegedly made by a sitting legislator, triggering strong reactions from community leaders and political figures. The issue intensified after accusations that the legislator made statements perceived as offensive and dismissive toward a particular community during a recent public gathering.

Speaking at a press interaction in Gadag, prominent leader Rudrappa Gulaguli strongly condemned the remarks and called for immediate action. He demanded the legislator's resignation, stating that such comments undermine social harmony and reflect poorly on public leadership. According to him, elected representatives have a responsibility to uphold dignity and ensure inclusive representation of all communities.

Gulaguli further pointed out that earlier efforts had been made at both the state and central levels to address the concerns of the community. He emphasized that policy recommendations and administrative measures had been initiated to provide recognition and benefits. However, he expressed disappointment that despite these steps, divisive statements were still being made.

The controversy has also revived past grievances, with allegations that members of the same community had previously faced legal and social challenges. Gulaguli argued that such recurring issues indicate a pattern of neglect and injustice, warning that public trust could erode without timely corrective action.

He also criticized the legislator for not issuing an apology, stressing that accountability is essential in a democratic system. The silence, he said, has further aggravated tensions among community members.

Several local leaders and activists expressed solidarity, urging authorities to intervene and ensure justice while maintaining peace.

Nationwide Protest Call by Trade Union Over Workers' Rights Violations

VIJAYAPURA

A major workers' movement is gaining momentum across the country after a leading trade union called for a nationwide protest, alleging widespread violations of labour rights and unfair employment practices. The announcement was made during a press briefing held in Vijayapura on April 18, 2026, where union leaders sharply criticized both state and central governments for failing to address workers' concerns.

According to union representatives, the protest is part of a broader national campaign aimed at securing justice for industrial workers facing poor working conditions, low wages, and lack of job security. Leaders emphasized that the movement extends beyond a single region and includes participation from multiple industrial hubs across northern and western India.

District-level union leaders stated that thousands of workers have already joined the agitation, particularly in industrial belts where grievances have been mounting over time. They alleged that many workers are denied fair wages and are compelled to work under unsafe and challenging conditions. Concerns were also raised about the increasing reliance on contractual employment systems, which they claim deprive workers of stability and essential benefits.

The union noted that the movement has been expanding steadily since early April, drawing tens of thousands of participants. They described it as a continuation of earlier protests and strikes, reflecting growing dissatisfaction with labour policies and economic inequality.

Among the key demands is the implementation of a fair minimum monthly wage to ensure a decent standard of living. Leaders urged authorities to initiate meaningful dialogue and take immediate action.

Delhi CM slams Oppn for blocking women's bill

Delhi Chief Minister protests bill delay, criticises Opposition, calls it setback for women's representation nationwide

NEW DELHI

Rekha Gupta on Saturday wore a black armband to protest against the non-passage of the Mahila Shakti Amendment Bill in Parliament.

She termed the development "painful" and strongly criticised Opposition parties for blocking the 131st Constitutional Amendment Bill in the Lok Sabha on Friday.

Speaking at a women entrepreneurs summit organised by the Confederation of All India Traders (CAIT), Gupta said women across the country would question what she described as the Opposition's "anti-women" stance. She also led slogans in support of women's rights during the event.

In a post on X, Gupta accused Opposition leaders of deliberately preventing women from gaining representation in the Lok Sabha. She alleged that they were more concerned about protecting their own constituencies than promoting wider participation of women in politics. The chief minister pointed out that India's population has grown significantly from about 50 crore in 1971 to nearly 140 crore today. She argued that increasing the number of seats in Parliament would allow better representation, including opportunities for women leaders to emerge. Gupta also compared India with several Western countries where women's representation in legislatures is close to or above 50 percent. She said India must move forward in ensuring equal participation of women in decision-making roles.

Calling the issue more than just political, Gupta said it concerns dignity and sensitivity for millions of women. She expressed disappointment that what she described as a key opportunity for empowering women had been lost.

She further alleged that parties like the Indian National Congress and their allies have previously obstructed measures aimed at women's empowerment.

According to her, this reflects their true intentions.

Mamata attacks PM ahead of national address

KOLKATA

West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Saturday criticised Prime Minister Narendra Modi ahead of his scheduled address to the nation, accusing him of spreading "another web of falsehood".

Speaking at a public rally, Banerjee said the Prime Minister's speech would mislead citizens following the failure of the 131st Constitution Amendment Bill in the Lok Sabha. The bill, linked to the implementation of women's reservation, was defeated after opposition parties refused to support the delimitation process.

Banerjee alleged that the bill was introduced with the intention of dividing the country and gaining political advantage. She claimed that the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party aimed to increase Lok Sabha seats from 543 to 850 to strengthen its position in elections. She further said her party sent all 21 MPs to Parliament despite ongoing election campaigns to oppose the move. According to her, the effort was aimed at protecting states like West Bengal from division.

Banerjee also stated that she has supported women's reservation since 1998 but opposed the current proposal due to its political motives. She accused the government of spreading misinformation through media channels.

Meanwhile, Bratya Basu criticised the Prime Minister, calling his communication style a "monologue" rather than a dialogue.

BJP women members hit streets against Oppn over bill blocking

NEW DELHI

The protest took place at Sunehri Bagh, where several BJP MPs, including Hema Malini, Kamaljeet Sehrawat, Bansuri Swaraj, Manju Sharma, and Vatsalya Gupta, took part. They accused Opposition parties of "humiliating" women by defeating the Constitution (131st Amendment) Bill in the Lok Sabha.

Delhi Chief Minister Rekha Gupta, state BJP president Virendra Sachdeva, Union Minister Raksha Khadse, and MP Manoj Tiwari also joined the protest along with party workers.

As the protesters tried to march toward Gandhi's residence, police used water cannons to disperse the crowd, officials said.

Addressing the gathering at Moti Lal Nehru Marg, Hema Malini said it was a "sad day" and accused the Opposition of lacking confidence in women's leadership. She added that Prime Minister Narendra Modi had worked hard to pass the bill, but it was blocked.

The bill aimed to introduce reservation for women in legislatures from 2029 and increase Lok Sabha seats. It received 298 votes in favour and 230 against, falling short of the required 352 votes for a two-thirds majority.

CBI busts digital arrest scam, 3 arrested

NEW DELHI

The Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) on Saturday carried out raids at five locations in Andhra Pradesh and Telangana in connection with a "digital arrest" fraud case. Three persons, including a bank official, were arrested during the operation.

The case involves cheating a senior citizen who was forced to transfer over Rs 1.6 crore after being threatened with a fake "digital arrest".

The accused were identified as Dubbaka Mahesh, a former assistant manager at IndusInd Bank, along with Rajesh Kanna and Vayala Srinivas.

According to officials, the defrauded money was routed through a bank account opened in the name of a company to receive illegal funds. Investigators found that the account was used to transfer money across multiple channels to hide its source.

The CBI arrested the bank official for allegedly helping in opening the fraudulent account, while the other accused were involved in arranging mule accounts and handling the movement of funds.

During searches, officials seized documents and electronic devices, which are now being examined for further investigation.

The agency said it will take strict action against those who misuse banking systems to support cybercrime. It also issued a warning to the public about scams involving threats like "digital arrest", clarifying that no such legal concept exists.

People were advised to stay alert against fake calls claiming to be from police or authorities and report any suspicious activity through the National Cyber Crime Reporting Portal or nearby police stations.

TERROR CALL

Pahalgam attack anniversary sparks call for action

SRINAGAR

Junaid Qureshi has called for strong action against terrorism as Kashmir marked one year since the deadly Pahalgam attack on tourists.

The April 22, 2025 attack at Baisaran Valley left 26 civilians dead after terrorists opened fire on visitors. The attack was later claimed by Lashkar-e-Taiba and its offshoot, The Resistance Front.

Qureshi described the incident as a targeted act of violence and said people across Kashmir continue to express grief and concern. He alleged that such attacks are backed by external forces and warned that they aim to disturb peace and development in Jammu and Kashmir.

He also highlighted the economic impact, stating that the tourism sector has suffered heavy losses.

Many local businesses linked to tourism have been affected, leading to job losses and reduced investment in the region.

Referring to India's response, Qureshi mentioned changes in bilateral relations and operations like Operation Sindoor, stressing that India would act firmly against terror infrastructure if needed.

At the same time, he urged people in Kashmir to take collective responsibility in rejecting extremist ideas. He said Kashmiris must clearly show that they do not support such ideologies or actions.

Qureshi also warned about the ongoing risk of radicalisation, pointing to later incidents, including a blast near the Red Fort in November 2025. Calling for stronger steps, he said simply condemning attacks is not enough. He urged people to openly oppose terrorism and isolate those who promote violence. He ended with a strong message, asking Kashmiris to stand united and say such acts are not done in their name.

Gehlot slams FIR order against Rahul Gandhi

He criticised HC directive for FIR against Rahul, calling allegations baseless and questioning the need for fresh probe

JAIPUR

Former Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot on Saturday criticised the Allahabad High Court's order to file an FIR against Congress MP Rahul Gandhi in an alleged dual citizenship case, calling it surprising and unwarranted.

He said the directive places an unnecessary burden on the executive despite earlier court rulings dismissing similar claims.Gehlot pointed out that such petitions were rejected by the Allahabad High Court in July 2025 and also by the Supreme Court in 2019.

He questioned the need for a fresh probe into what he described as baseless allegations regarding British citizenship.

The Lucknow bench of the Allahabad High Court on Friday ordered the filing of an FIR based on a petition by a BJP worker, S Vignesh Shishir from Karnataka. The petitioner claimed Rahul Gandhi held British citizenship and had incorporated a company, M/S Backops Ltd, registered in August 2003. He also alleged that Gandhi declared himself a British national and provided London and Hampshire addresses.

The complaint was first filed in a special MP/MLA court in Rae Bareli. Later, it was transferred to a similar court in Lucknow, which dismissed the plea on January 28. The petitioner then moved the high court, leading to the latest order.

Defending Gandhi, Gehlot highlighted his family's contributions to the nation. He said Rahul Gandhi's father Rajiv Gandhi and grandmother Indira Gandhi sacrificed their lives for the country, while Jawaharlal Nehru spent years in jail during the freedom struggle. Gehlot added that Rahul has worked to promote unity and harmony, making the action against him unfortunate.

Rijiju blames Cong for women's bill defeat

NEW DELHI

Union Parliamentary Affairs Minister Kiren Rijiju on Saturday said the failure of the Constitution (131st Amendment) Bill, 2026, was not a setback for the Centre but a major loss caused by Congress and its allies. He stated that the Bill, which aimed to provide 33 per cent reservation for women, could not pass due to lack of Opposition support.The Bill failed to secure the required two-thirds majority in the Lok Sabha, receiving 278 votes in favour and 211 against after a full-day debate. Following this, the government decided not to proceed with related delimitation proposals.Rijiju expressed disappointment, saying the defeat was a loss for women across the country. He accused Congress and other Opposition parties of blocking an important reform that would have increased women's representation in Parliament and state assemblies. He added that such actions could invite public anger, especially from women.

Union Minister Kiren Rijiju blamed Opposition parties for defeat of Women's Reservation Bill in Parliament vote

Criticising the Opposition further, Rijiju said celebrating the Bill's failure showed an anti-women mindset. He maintained that the government had made all possible efforts to pass the legislation through discussions and meetings with various parties. However, he claimed that Congress leaders did not actively participate in these discussions and instead raised objections later.

COPS BUST RADICAL MODULE LINKED TO RED FORT BLAST

NEW DELHI

Delhi Police on Saturday busted a multi-state radical module and arrested four youths allegedly involved in online radicalisation and terror planning. Officials said the group aimed to recruit members and establish an Islamic state through extremist activities.Police claimed that the investigation revealed a possible link to a past Red Fort blast that killed 11 people and injured several others. One accused had visited the Red Fort and other sensitive locations in December 2025 and shared edited images to influence others.

The arrests were made by the Special Cell from Maharashtra, Odisha and Bihar. An FIR has been registered under relevant sections of the law. Authorities recovered material used to prepare Improvised Explosive Devices (IEDs), along with mobile phones containing evidence.

Investigators said the accused were active on encrypted social media platforms, where they spread extremist content and recruited youth. Two members were collecting materials to build a remote-controlled IED using a toy car for possible attacks.

Police said the group used different roles, including collecting funds, arranging weapons training and sharing instructions. One accused reportedly shared bank details to raise money, while others circulated images of explosives and related items.

Officials added that the accused had discussed targeting key locations such as the Ram temple, Parliament and military installations to create panic. The group's activities were closely monitored before the coordinated arrests were made.

TMC moves ECI against Assam CM

KOLKATA

The Trinamool Congress on Saturday approached the Election Commission of India, accusing Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma of making derogatory and divisive remarks against West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee during the ongoing election campaign.

In its complaint, the party referred to a speech delivered by Sarma at a rally in Cooch Behar district. It alleged that he made inappropriate comments regarding Banerjee's concerns over food habits if the BJP comes to power in the state. According to the Trinamool Congress, such remarks were misleading and aimed at creating confusion among voters.

The party further claimed that Sarma made unverified and inflammatory allegations about the Muslim community, including claims about beef trade activities in certain areas. It stated that these comments were intended to create fear, mistrust and division among different religious groups in West Bengal.

In its letter submitted to the office of the Chief Electoral Officer, the Trinamool Congress said that such statements could disturb peace and affect the smooth conduct of elections. It warned that such rhetoric may lead to tension and law and order issues if not addressed immediately.

The ruling party requested the Election Commission to take strict action against Sarma and the BJP. It urged the poll body to issue a show-cause notice and hold them accountable for the alleged violations.

Additionally, the party demanded that police authorities be directed to register a First Information Report against the Assam Chief Minister. It stressed that strong action was necessary to prevent the spread of communal tension and to ensure free and fair elections in the state.

Rahul targets Modi over US-TN politics

NEW DELHI

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Saturday launched a strong attack on Prime Minister Narendra Modi, accusing him of being influenced by United States leadership and interfering in Tamil Nadu politics.

Speaking at an election rally, Gandhi criticised the Prime Minister's behaviour in Parliament during discussions on the delimitation bill. He claimed that Modi appeared lacking confidence and avoided facing the Opposition during the session. Gandhi alleged that this was due to external influence from the United States.

He further claimed that India's interests had been compromised through agreements with the US. According to him, key sectors such as energy, data security, farmers and small industries had been weakened due to government decisions. He accused the Centre of failing to protect national interests.

Escalating his remarks, Gandhi made personal allegations linking the Prime Minister with former US President Donald Trump. He claimed that Modi was being fully controlled by Trump and suggested that such influence affected India's leadership decisions. Gandhi also alleged that this control was linked to sensitive financial information and connections involving business interests.

Turning his focus to Tamil Nadu, the Congress leader accused the Prime Minister of trying to influence state politics.

He alleged that the Centre was attempting to bring the AIADMK to power in the state by exerting control similar to what he claimed existed at the national level.

Udhayanidhi slams Centre, promises welfare boost

Erode
Tamil Nadu Deputy Chief Minister Udhayanidhi Stalin on Saturday accused the Centre of denying the state its rightful funds and powers, while announcing an expanded welfare agenda ahead of the Assembly elections.

Speaking at a campaign rally in Gobichettipalayam, he alleged that the Union government had withheld around ₹3,000 crore meant for the state's education sector. He said such actions showed discrimination against states not ruled by the BJP.

Udhayanidhi also criticised the proposed delimitation exercise, stating that Chief Minister M.K. Stalin was the first to oppose it. He claimed that the Opposition INDIA bloc played a key role in defeating the related Bill in Parliament.

Highlighting government schemes, he promised to expand welfare measures if the DMK returns to power. He said the Kalaignar Magalir Urimai Thogai scheme would be increased from ₹1,000 to ₹2,000 per month, benefiting over 1.3 crore women.

He also announced that the breakfast scheme for government school students would be extended up to Class VIII to improve nutrition and attendance. Additionally, he promised free laptops for more than 35 lakh college students under a revived scheme.

Introducing a new proposal, he spoke about the 'Illatharasi' scheme, which would provide ₹8,000 coupons to eligible women for purchasing household items.

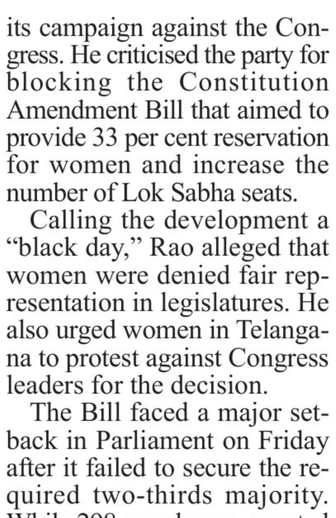
NCW seeks strict action in Amravati exploitation case

NEW DELHI

The National Commission for Women (NCW) has raised serious concern over the circulation of obscene videos involving young girls in Maharashtra's Amravati district and directed authorities to ensure their removal from online platforms.

During a high-level review meeting on April 17, NCW Chairperson Vijaya Rahatkar assessed the progress of the investigation. So far, Amravati police have arrested eight people in connection with the case, which came to light on April 11 after objectionable videos surfaced online.

Officials said the case involves exploitation of multiple victims, with content allegedly recorded and shared through digital platforms. The situation has raised concerns about misuse of technology and the safety of victims.



Rahatkar questioned whether strict legal provisions were being properly applied and sought clarity on gaps between media reports and recovered evidence. The case has been registered under the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, the POCSO Act and the Information Technology Act.She directed authorities to intensify efforts to trace all digital material and investigate possible financial or commercial angles. Officials were also asked to examine links between the accused and locations where the incidents occurred.

'Telangana BJP chief under house arrest'

HYDERABAD

Telangana BJP on Saturday alleged that its state president N Ramchander Rao was placed under house arrest ahead of a planned protest at Chief Minister A Revanth Reddy's residence.

The party said the protest was called to oppose the Congress over the defeat of the Women's Reservation Bill in Parliament. According to BJP leaders, police action was taken to prevent the demonstration, and photographs of the situation were shared on social media.

Despite the restrictions, Rao said the party would continue its campaign against the Congress. He criticised the party for blocking the Constitution Amendment Bill that aimed to provide 33 per cent reservation for women and increase the number of Lok Sabha seats.

Calling the development a "black day," Rao alleged that women were denied fair representation in legislatures. He also urged women in Telangana to protest against Congress leaders for the decision.

The Bill faced a major setback in Parliament on Friday after it failed to secure the required two-thirds majority. While 298 members supported it, 230 voted against it.

US extends waiver for Russian oil purchases

US has extended a one-month sanctions waiver allowing countries to receive Russian oil already in transit, aiming to prevent global supply disruptions.

WASHINGTON

The United States has extended a sanctions waiver allowing countries to purchase petroleum products from Russia for an additional month, reversing earlier indications that the exemption would not be renewed.

The US Department of the Treasury announced that the waiver applies to Russian oil already loaded on vessels on or before April 17 and permits its transit and delivery until May 16. The move provides temporary relief to global markets reliant on existing shipments.

Previously, the United States had issued a short-term exemption beginning March 5, initially allowing select countries, including India, to continue purchasing

Russian oil under limited conditions. That waiver, along with similar permissions for other countries, had expired in early April.

The updated general licence clarifies that transactions involving entities linked to Iran, North Korea, Cuba, or certain regions of Ukraine remain prohibited. The Treasury emphasized that the waiver is limited in scope and does not signal a broader easing of sanctions policy.

The decision follows earlier statements from US Treasury officials indicating that Washington would not extend special exemptions for Russian and Iranian oil. However, the latest extension reflects concerns over global supply stability and the need to manage oil already in transit.

Analysts note that the waiver impacts an estimated volume of oil already at sea, helping prevent sudden supply disruptions in international markets amid ongoing geopolitical tensions.

Overall, the extension underscores the balancing act between sanctions enforcement and global energy market stability, as the United States continues to use targeted financial measures while avoiding immediate shocks to crude oil supply chains worldwide.

Australia-Japan seal $6.5B warship deal

MELBOURNE

Australia and Japan have signed a major defence agreement worth USD 6.5 billion to supply and co-produce advanced Mogami-class frigates, marking a significant step in bilateral military cooperation.

Under the deal, Mitsubishi Heavy Industries will construct the first three of ten planned frigates in Japan, with delivery expected to begin within three years. The remaining eight vessels will be built in Western Australia, strengthening Australia's domestic shipbuilding capacity.

The signing ceremony was attended by Japanese Defence Minister Shinjiro Koizumi and Australian Deputy Prime Minister and Defence Minister Richard Marles aboard the JS Kumano, a Mogami-class frigate of the Japan Maritime Self-Defence Force, docked near Melbourne.

Australia selected the Japanese bid over competing European designs, citing faster delivery timelines, reduced crew requirements,

Both the countries will co-produce advanced Mogami-class frigates, marking a significant step in bilateral military cooperation and advanced capabilities suited for modern maritime threats. The new fleet will replace Australia's ageing ANZAC-class frigates, which are considered less effective against emerging missile and drone technologies.

Officials said the first frigate is expected to enter service by 2029, with the programme representing the fastest introduction of surface combat vessels into the Royal Australian Navy in its history.

The Mogami-class ships are designed for multi-role operations, including air defence, anti-ship warfare, and helicopter deployment, while requiring significantly fewer personnel to operate compared to older platforms.

Japan described the agreement as a major expansion of defence cooperation with Australia, which it now views as a key strategic partner alongside its alliance with the United States.

The deal also reflects Japan's growing push to expand defence exports and deepen security ties in the Indo-Pacific region amid rising geopolitical tensions.

Farmers across Pakistan have launched nationwide protests opposing corporate farming reforms, demanding protection for small landholders and livelihoods.

Pakistan farmers oppose government push for corporate farming

ISLAMABAD

Nationwide protests have erupted across Pakistan as farmers oppose the government's push for corporate farming, saying the policy threatens small landholders and rural livelihoods.

Demonstrations were reported in multiple provinces including Punjab and Sindh where farmers blocked roads and staged sit-ins demanding withdrawal of the proposed agricultural reforms.

Protesters argue that corporate farming initiatives could lead to land concentration in the hands of large investors leaving small farmers economically vulnerable and further deepening rural inequality.

Farmer unions have called for broader consultations and transparency in policymaking urging the government to prioritize food security and local agricultural sustainability over large-scale commercial farming models.

Authorities have responded by deploying security forces in some areas while claiming the reforms are aimed at modernizing agriculture and improving productivity.

However tensions continue to rise as protests spread to rural districts with leaders warning of sustained agitation if demands are not addressed.

Observers say the unrest reflects growing frustration among rural communities over perceived exclusion from major economic decision making processes related to agriculture reform policies.

Analysts note that Pakistan's agricultural sector remains highly fragmented and dependent on small landholdings making large-scale corporate entry a sensitive political issue nationwide.

The government maintains that private sector involvement is necessary to boost investment improve yields and ensure food security in the long term but opposition groups remain unconvinced demanding immediate rollback of the policy framework and protection for small farmers livelihoods.

Protests are expected to continue across rural belts in coming days with unions planning coordinated nationwide demonstrations if negotiations fail to progress meaningfully intensify further soon.

Pak, Saudi, Turkey, Egypt FMs meet in Antalya

ISLAMABAD

Foreign ministers of Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Turkey, and Egypt held their third consultative meeting in Antalya to strengthen cooperation and discuss regional developments.

The meeting took place on the sidelines of the Antalya Diplomacy Forum, bringing together Pakistan's Foreign Minister Ishaq Dar, Saudi Foreign Minister Prince Faisal bin Farhan Al Saud, Turkish Foreign Minister Hakan Fidan, and Egyptian Foreign Minister Badr Abdelatty.

According to a statement from Pakistan's Foreign Office, the ministers reaffirmed their commitment to expanding collaboration in areas of mutual interest, while also emphasizing the importance of sustained dialogue and diplomacy in addressing regional challenges.

The discussions also focused on evolving geopolitical dynamics, with participants highlighting the need for coordinated efforts to promote peace, stability, and economic cooperation across their respective regions.

Officials noted that this meeting continues a series of engagements between the four countries, following earlier rounds held in Saudi Arabia and Pakistan, as well as a senior officials' meeting in Islamabad.

The dialogue comes at a time of heightened regional tensions, particularly in West Asia, where diplomatic initiatives are ongoing to manage conflicts and reduce economic disruptions. The group also acknowledged the importance of building structured cooperation frameworks to address shared concerns.

Pakistan's leadership reportedly encouraged the formation of a formal partnership mechanism among the four countries to strengthen coordination on political, economic, and development issues.

Three other soldiers were injured and evacuated for medical treatment. Macron announced the development in a post on X, expressing concern over the escalation and urging the Lebanese government to take action against those responsible. World Uyghur Congress condemns Malaysia deportation case

MUNICH

The World Uyghur Congress has strongly condemned the deportation of a Uyghur activist from Malaysia, calling the move a serious violation of human rights and international protection norms.

It said the deportation raises concerns over due process, non-refoulement obligations, and the safety of Uyghur individuals facing persecution in various countries.

The organization urged Malaysian authorities to review the case and ensure that no individual is sent to a country where they may face arbitrary detention or mistreatment.

It also called on the international community to strengthen protections for ethnic minorities and to hold governments accountable for forced deportations that may violate international law.

Human rights groups have repeatedly warned that Uyghur activists and asylum seekers face heightened risks of deportation from countries maintaining security cooperation with China.

They have urged clearer international guidelines to ensure protection of vulnerable groups under refugee and asylum frameworks.

The World Uyghur Congress reiterated that deportations of Uyghur individuals should be halted until independent assessments guarantee their safety upon return.

The case has drawn renewed attention to Malaysia's deportation policies and broader debates on human rights obligations in cross-border security arrangements.

Advocates say the incident underscores ongoing tensions between migration enforcement and international protection standards for stateless or persecuted communities.

Mandelson scandal deepens pressure on Starmer leadership

LONDON

British Prime Minister Keir Starmer is facing renewed political pressure after fresh revelations surrounding the appointment of Peter Mandelson as UK ambassador to the United States, raising questions about government transparency and parliamentary accountability.

The controversy has intensified following reports that Mandelson was initially denied security clearance before being appointed, despite Starmer telling Parliament that full due process had been followed. The discrepancy has triggered allegations that the Prime Minister may have misled lawmakers.

The issue has already led to the resignation of a senior Foreign Office official, further deepening the political fallout. Starmer has said he was not informed of key aspects of the vetting process and described the situation as "staggering" and "unforgivable," promising to address Parliament directly.

Mandelson, a senior political figure with a long history in UK politics, was appointed amid expectations that his diplomatic and trade experience would strengthen relations with the United States. However, his past associations and prior controversies have repeatedly resurfaced, complicating his tenure.

The situation has escalated into a broader debate about political judgment, with critics arguing that the appointment reflects serious lapses in oversight. Opposition leaders have accused the government of losing credibility, while members within Starmer's own party are reportedly concerned about reputational damage.

Analysts note that the controversy is particularly sensitive for Starmer, who built his political platform on integrity and adherence to rules. The unfolding situation now risks undermining that narrative at a critical time for his leadership.

A parliamentary statement is expected, with growing speculation over whether the crisis could further weaken internal support within the ruling party if dissatisfaction continues to rise.

SRI LANKA TOURISM

Sri Lanka tourism drops amid West Asia conflict impact

COLOMBO

Tourist arrivals in Sri Lanka declined sharply in March due to disruptions caused by the ongoing conflict in West Asia, according to the Sri Lanka Tourism Development Authority (SLTDA).

After strong inflows in January and February, with over 277,000 and 279,000 arrivals respectively, the country saw a significant fall in March to 183,979 visitors.

Officials attributed the decline mainly to the war in the Gulf and Middle East region, which disrupted key transit routes and travel plans.

The SLTDA said that disruptions at major transit hubs affected international connectivity, leading to reduced tourist movement, particularly from long-haul markets dependent on Middle Eastern flight connections.

Despite the overall decline, India remained Sri Lanka's largest source of tourists in March, contributing 47,533 arrivals and holding a 25.8% market share. The report highlighted that India's proximity and strong air connectivity helped sustain steady travel flows.

The United Kingdom ranked second with 18,092 arrivals, followed by Russia and China. Officials noted that India's direct flight network, which avoids transit through Middle Eastern hubs, provided a significant advantage during the regional crisis.

The SLTDA also stated that India has now emerged as a stable and high-volume short-haul market for Sri Lanka, helping partially offset declines from Europe and other affected regions.

Overall, the tourism authority emphasized that while external geopolitical tensions have impacted travel patterns, strong regional connectivity—particularly with India—continues to play a crucial role in supporting Sri Lanka's tourism recovery.

North region airports drive traffic also face fog

New Delhi

North India handles nearly 30 percent of the country's air passenger traffic, an Airports Authority of India official said. The region also manages about 26 percent of aircraft movements, showing its growing importance. Delhi's Indira Gandhi International Airport remains the busiest hub. However, winter fog continues to disrupt flights, causing delays and cancellations, especially in early mornings. Officials use advanced landing systems, but very low visibility still creates problems. Meanwhile, airport expansion is underway in cities like Jodhpur, Udaipur, Leh, and Varanasi. Authorities are also improving passenger comfort and aiming for greener, more efficient airports by 2030.

India startup boom creates jobs and sets records

New Delhi

The government recognised over 55,200 startups in 2025-26, the highest yearly rise since Startup India began. Total recognised startups have crossed 2.23 lakh, creating more than 23.36 lakh direct jobs. Growth remained strong, with startups rising sharply and employment increasing across sectors. Leading hubs include Maharashtra, Karnataka, Uttar Pradesh, Delhi, and Gujarat. Government schemes offering funding and credit support helped expansion at different stages. Startups also boosted innovation, filing thousands of patents during the year. Officials said efforts will continue to improve funding access, encourage entrepreneurship, and strengthen India's position as a global startup hub.

Small LPG cylinders see surge amid supply push

New Delhi

The government said over 17.25 lakh small 5 kg LPG cylinders have been sold since March 23, boosting access to cooking fuel. The move mainly supports migrant workers and low-income groups. Supply of these smaller cylinders has also been doubled in recent weeks. Officials said there is no shortage, with full supply of LPG, PNG, and CNG being maintained across the country. Awareness camps and strict checks have increased availability and reduced misuse. Authorities added that fuel supply remains stable, while port operations continue normally despite global tensions and ongoing monitoring.

Consumer Firms Set For Strong Quarter Growth

New Delhi

Consumer discretionary companies are likely to report strong growth in the March quarter, driven by improving demand, a report said. Revenue is expected to rise about 23 percent year-on-year, supported by recovery across sectors. Jewellery may lead with sharp gains, while apparel and paints could see steady growth. Food delivery businesses are also expected to remain stable. Profit margins may improve slightly due to better efficiency and higher sales. However, challenges like cost pressures and competition remain. Overall, the sector is showing signs of recovery after a period of weak demand and uncertainty.

'Indian states can attract more Asian investment'

Indian states are urged to court East Asian giants, turning regional ties into a multibillion-dollar windfall for national growth.

NEW DELHI

India's state governments are being urged to join forces with the central leadership to attract massive new investments from East Asian neighbors.

A recent report suggests that as global markets shift due to conflicts in the West, India has a golden opportunity to strengthen economic ties with nations like Japan, South Korea, and Vietnam.

The report highlights that while countries like Japan have already invested over $43 billion in India, there is still huge untapped potential. To capitalize on this, Japan recently created a special division dedicated to helping its companies expand into Indian markets. Currently, over 1,400 Japanese firms operate across states like Tamil Nadu and Gujarat, but officials believe this is just the beginning.

Individual states are already making big moves. Maharashtra recently secured a massive $8.5 billion deal with Vietnam's VinGroup. This partnership aims to build eco-friendly "smart townships" and boost renewable energy, potentially housing 200,000 people. Last year, Maharashtra alone brought in nearly 40 percent of all foreign investment entering India, proving that local efforts yield high rewards.

Other states are following suit. Gujarat recently signed a deal with a Taiwan-linked firm to create a specialized industrial park. Experts believe that if more states focus on modern infrastructure and green energy, India can become the primary hub for Asian business. By simplifying rules and building stronger relationships with ASEAN nations, Indian states can lead the country toward a new era of rapid economic growth and regional stability.

India strengthens trade ties with South Africa

NEW DELHI

Indian companies are targeting South Africa's Dube TradePort SEZ as a strategic manufacturing hub to boost exports and compete with global rivals across the continent.

India is looking to boost its economic presence in Africa by targeting new investment opportunities in South Africa's Dube TradePort Special Economic Zone (SEZ). As global competition heats up, Indian companies are viewing this logistics hub as a strategic gateway to scale up manufacturing and export operations across the continent.

The Dube TradePort is unique because it is the only South African economic zone integrated with an international airport. This location offers a massive advantage for industries that rely on quick exports, such as pharmaceuticals, electronics, and car parts. Indian giants like Mahindra and Cipla are already operating within the zone, proving that the partnership creates jobs and strengthens bilateral ties.

To attract more global players, the SEZ offers enticing benefits, including a low 15 percent corporate tax rate and ready to use industrial land. A massive expansion is also underway, adding over 700 hectares to the site to accommodate more factories. This growth comes at a vital time as New Delhi keeps a close watch on new trade deals between China and Africa, which could shift the balance of regional trade.

For India, the focus is on staying competitive. By utilizing the SEZ's advanced infrastructure and customs-controlled areas, Indian firms can lower their costs and reach global markets faster. Experts believe that deepening this commercial bond will not only help India secure its footprint in Africa but also turn the Dube TradePort into a central pillar of India-South Africa economic cooperation for years to come.

Two state-owned tech bodies align to boost the Digital India mission through high-tech research and large-scale industrial innovation.

India tech giants join forces for digital future

NEW DELHI

Two of India's leading state-owned technology bodies have joined forces to fast-track the nation's digital growth. Broadcast Engineering Consultants India Limited (BECIL) and the Centre for Development of Advanced Computing (C-DAC) signed a major agreement.

This partnership aims to revolutionize how the country uses advanced technology, including Artificial Intelligence (AI) and the high-speed 5G network.

Under this new deal, both organizations will work together to create smart solutions for everyday problems. Their focus spans a wide range of modern tech, such as cyber security, cloud computing, and the "Internet of Things." By combining their expertise, they plan to build a "future-ready" digital system that helps both the government and private businesses operate more efficiently.

A major part of this mission involves people, not just machines. The agreement highlights "upskilling," which means training the workforce to handle these new technologies effectively. BECIL Chairman D.K. Murali explained that this teamwork will allow them to deliver more impactful digital services. Essentially, BECIL's experience in broadcasting and IT will blend with C-DAC's world-class research in supercomputing.

This collaboration is a significant step toward the government's "Digital India" vision. By sharing technology and commercializing new inventions, the two groups hope to spark innovation across the country. As the world moves faster into a tech-driven era, this alliance ensures that India remains a leader in digital transformation, making life easier and more secure for its citizens through modern innovation.

Rural road scheme extended until 2028

NEW DELHI

The Union Cabinet has officially approved the extension of the Pradhan Mantri Gram Sadak Yojana-III (PMGSY-III), ensuring that rural road projects continue through March 2028.

To support this vital mission, the government has increased the total budget to ₹83,977 crore. This decision aims to finish upgrading thousands of kilometers of roads that link remote villages to essential services and larger markets.

The primary goal of the scheme is to connect rural homes to agricultural markets, high schools, and hospitals. By improving these major links, the government hopes to reduce travel time and transport costs for farmers and small business owners. Officials stated that better roads will directly boost the rural economy and help bridge the gap between village life and urban opportunities, aligning with the "Viksit Bharat 2047" vision.

In addition to roads, the Cabinet approved the construction of 161 long-span bridges, particularly in hilly areas where terrain makes travel difficult. The new timeline also allows projects sanctioned before March 2025 to finally move forward into the bidding and construction phases. This extension is expected to create a significant number of jobs in the construction sector and beyond.

Major rail projects approved for 2 states

NEW DELHI

The central government has greenlit two massive railway projects in Uttar Pradesh and Andhra Pradesh to boost travel and trade.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi chaired a meeting where officials approved a ₹24,815 crore plan. These projects will add about 601 kilometers of new tracks, helping trains move faster and more reliably through 15 different districts.

In Uttar Pradesh, a new 403-kilometer line will connect Ghaziabad and Sitapur. This ₹14,926 crore project is a vital link between northern and eastern India. It will pass through major industrial hubs known for electronics, brassware, and textiles. To keep trains moving smoothly, the new tracks will bypass several crowded stations, and six brand-new stations will be built. This will significantly cut down travel time for both passengers and heavy cargo like coal and cement.

In Andhra Pradesh, the government is investing ₹9,889 crore to expand the line between Rajahmundry and Visakhapatnam. This route runs along the busy eastern coastline and is essential for moving goods like iron, steel, and fertilizers. Expanding this section to four tracks will clear up traffic on one of the country's busiest rail corridors, making it easier for freight and passenger trains to share the space.

Beyond business, the new tracks will make it much easier for pilgrims and tourists to visit famous sites. From the Ganga Ghats in Garhmukteshwar to the historic temples in Annavaram, travel will become more accessible for millions. By improving these "high-density" networks, the government aims to strengthen India's economy and connect people more efficiently across the nation.

Govt approves major crop buyouts for farmers

NEW DELHI

In a major win for rural India, Agriculture Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan announced a massive support package for farmers in three states.

The Central government will buy 20 lakh metric tonnes of potatoes from Uttar Pradesh to ensure prices don't crash. By fixing the price at ₹6,500.9 per metric tonne, the government is stepping in to make sure farmers earn a fair profit.

This move prevents "distress sales," where farmers are often forced to sell their crops at low prices just to get rid of them. The potato initiative alone will cost the government over ₹203 crore. Minister Chouhan emphasized that the goal is to protect every farmer from market swings. "No farmer should be forced to sell their hard work for less than it's worth," he stated, highlighting the government's commitment to stable incomes.

The relief also extends to South India. In Andhra Pradesh, the government increased the limit for buying Chana (chickpeas) to over 1.1 lakh metric tonnes. Meanwhile, in Karnataka, farmers growing Tur (pigeon pea) have been given extra time to sell their harvest to the government, with the deadline now extended to May 15. These steps provide a much-needed safety net for those growing pulses and legumes.

By coordinating closely with state leaders, the Ministry of Agriculture aims to create a more predictable and secure environment for farming. These interventions are designed to boost the rural economy and ensure that cultivation remains a reliable way of life. For millions of farming families, this weekend's announcement brings both financial security and peace of mind for the coming season.

Cabinet approves 2% pay hike boost

NEW DELHI

The Union Cabinet, led by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, announced a 2 percent increase in Dearness Allowance (DA) for central government employees.

This pay boost, backdated to January 1, 2026, is designed to help workers and pensioners keep up with the rising cost of living. With this change, the total allowance reaches 60 percent of basic pay.

This decision will put more money into the pockets of roughly 50.46 lakh employees and 68.27 lakh pensioners. The government expects this move to cost the national exchequer about ₹6,791.24 crore annually. While the 2 percent hike follows the standard rules of the 7th Pay Commission, it comes at a time when employees are hoping for much larger changes under the upcoming 8th Pay Commission.

Staff unions are currently pushing for a major overhaul of the entire salary system. A key proposal from the National Council–Joint Consultative Machinery (NC-JCM) suggests a much higher "multiplier" for salaries. If the government accepts these bold demands, the minimum basic pay could jump from ₹18,000 to nearly ₹69,000.

SMART ENERGY QUEST

India switches to data for ocean energy

NEW DELHI

India is moving away from "blind exploration" and embracing a high-tech, data-driven approach to find oil and gas beneath the sea.

Petroleum Minister Hardeep Singh Puri announced that the country is opening up its data to global experts to ensure energy security. The goal is to make underwater discovery faster, cheaper, and far more accurate than traditional methods.

The Ministry of Petroleum and Natural Gas recently met with major global players like BP, Shell, and ExxonMobil to discuss this shift. Under a new mission called "Samudra Manthan," India plans to map its vast offshore territories using advanced seismic data. Minister Puri emphasized that success depends on sharing knowledge rather than keeping it hidden. "The more eyes we have on the data, the greater the possibilities beneath our seas," he stated.

Industry leaders at the conference noted that high-quality data is the biggest factor in deciding where to dig. Currently, gaps in data for deep-water areas have made some investors hesitant. To fix this, the government is looking at "multi-client" models, where several companies share the costs and results of data collection. This collaborative spirit aims to turn the risky business of energy hunting into a precise science.

By adopting these modern tools and encouraging international partnerships, India hopes to unlock its massive offshore potential. The move is a key part of the nation's journey toward becoming self-reliant in energy. With better maps and smarter technology, India is ready to lead a new era of ocean-based discovery.

Sikkim's Temi tea sets new price record

GANGTOK

Sikkim's famous Temi Tea estate has reached a historic milestone this season. The estate's first flush organic tea was sold for a record-breaking price of 27,000 rupees per kilogram, according to an official announcement. This achievement highlights the growing global demand for high-quality, sustainably grown tea from the Himalayan region.

The "first flush" refers to the very first harvest of the year, picked when the tea leaves are at their most tender. Known for its delicate floral flavor and light, golden color, this specific harvest is considered the "champagne" of teas. Because of its superior quality and limited supply, it remains a favorite among collectors and tea enthusiasts in both Indian and international markets.

The record price was reached through a competitive open bidding process. Buyers showed incredible interest in the initial lots, and subsequent batches continue to draw strong attention. This success is a major win for the state-owned estate, which is currently busy harvesting fresh leaves to produce its premium varieties, including traditional orthodox black tea and smooth oolong tea.

For the workers and managers at Temi, this isn't just about the money, it's a validation of their dedication to organic farming. By avoiding chemicals and focusing on artisanal production, they have turned a local product into a world-class luxury. As the harvest season continues, the estate looks forward to maintaining this momentum, proving that Sikkim's green hills produce some of the finest treasures on earth.

These youngsters have dominated domestic cricket and now get their chance to shine on the world stage.

While new faces bring excitement, the team still relies on its legendary backbone. Cricket icons Babar Azam, Mohammad Rizwan, and pace spearhead Shaheen Shah Afridi remain central to Pakistan's hopes. This blend of raw energy and seasoned wisdom aims to overpower a Bangladesh side currently struggling in eighth place.

Preparations begin shortly with a focused training camp in Karachi on April 27. The first Test kicks off on May 8 at the Sher-e-Bangla Stadium, followed by a second clash in Sylhet on May 16. With Sarfaraz calling the shots from the dugout and a hunger for victory in the air, Pakistan fans are hopeful that this strategic shift will finally lead the team back to the top.

India vows stronger comeback after narrow defeat

DURBAN

India's vice-captain Smriti Mandhana remains optimistic despite a heartbreaking six-wicket loss to South Africa in the first T20I. While the defeat gives the hosts a 1-0 lead in the five-match series, Mandhana praised her team's fighting spirit for dragging the game into a tense final over at Kingsmead.

Smriti Mandhana praised India's resilience after a narrow T20I loss to South Africa, viewing the match as vital preparation for the upcoming T20 World Cup.

India's innings started with a bang thanks to Shafali Verma's aggressive batting. However, the momentum stalled mid-innings, and the team failed to post a dominant total. Mandhana admitted that the batting unit struggled to capitalize on their strong start, leaving them slightly short of a winning score. Despite this, she found great pride in how the bowlers responded after a shaky start to the second half.

"We came back really well," Mandhana noted, emphasizing that the players showed immense character to keep the contest alive until the very end. The match served as a vital wake-up call for the squad, who are returning to international action after a month-long break following their series against Australia. With the T20 World Cup beginning this June in England, these matches are crucial for finding the right rhythm. On a personal level, Mandhana was disappointed with her low score but felt energized to improve.

Cricketer slams Punjab officials over bribery claims

NEW DELHI

Former national-level cricketer Pulkit Sharma has sparked an intense public debate after claiming he was forced to pay massive bribes during a land deal in Punjab. In a viral social media post, Sharma detailed the "insane" corruption he encountered while trying to register a property, despite having all his legal documents in order.

Sharma alleged that his lawyer informed him that every official has a "fixed rate" for their services. He claimed he had to pay off a tehsildar and over two dozen other staff members just to keep his file moving. The athlete described the administration as "crooked" and stated that even though his land purchase was completely transparent, the system felt designed to stall anyone who refused to pay extra. He concluded by saying that investing in Punjab currently feels "criminal."

The post has divided the internet. While many users shared similar stories of government inefficiency and greed, others argued that paying bribes only fuels the problem. Some commenters claimed they successfully registered land without extra payments, suggesting that citizens should resist these demands.

However, Sharma stood by his words, explaining that brokers operate openly outside government offices. He claimed that officials intentionally show up late or create fake objections to pressure people into paying for faster service. This explosive allegation has put a spotlight on the state's land department, with many now calling for a serious investigation into these deeply entrenched and shameful practices.

Delhi Capitals defeated Royal Challengers Bengaluru by 6 wickets at the M. Chinnaswamy Stadium in Bengaluru on Saturday.

Sunrisers Hyderabad defeated Chennai Super Kings by 10 runs at the Rajiv Gandhi International Stadium in Hyderabad on Saturday.

Iyer's incredible catch makes Jonty feel old

NEW DELHI

Legendary South African fielder Jonty Rhodes has hailed Shreyas Iyer's recent boundary heroics as a sign of how much cricket has evolved. During a recent IPL match, the Punjab Kings captain pulled off a stunning "catch-and-release" move to dismiss Hardik Pandya, leaving icons like Rohit Sharma and Sachin Tendulkar in absolute awe. Rhodes, long considered the gold standard for athleticism, took to social media to share his admiration. He joked that while he previously felt like the "father of fielding," watching modern athletes like Iyer makes him feel like the "grandfather."

He noted that during his playing days, ninety-nine percent of his time was spent in the inner circle. As of now, the focus has shifted to the boundary ropes, where players perform "airborne saves" to turn certain sixes into wickets.

Tactics not injury, keeping Sundar from bowling

NEW DELHI

Gujarat Titans' assistant coach Parthiv Patel has cleared the air regarding limited bowling role this season. Despite fan concerns, Patel confirmed that the all-rounder is fully fit and that his reduced time at the crease is strictly a tactical "match-up" decision rather than a result of any injury. The Titans have shifted their strategy this year, promoting Sundar to the top four in the batting lineup to provide him with more stability. While his batting role has grown, his off-spin has been used sparingly. Patel explained that the conditions in Ahmedabad simply haven't favored Sundar's style of bowling. "It is purely a conditions-based decision," Patel noted, adding that the team looks for specific moments, such as when left-handed batters are at the crease, to utilize his skills effectively.

Beyond Sundar, Patel addressed the team's middle order, which has seen very little action due to the sheer dominance of their top three hitters. With stars like Glenn Phillips and Shahrukh Khan waiting in the wings, the coach insists there is no reason for alarm. The team prefers their set openers to finish matches whenever possible, a plan that is clearly working well so far.

Currently enjoying a confident three-match winning streak, the Gujarat Titans are focused on maintaining their momentum. As they prepare to face the Mumbai Indians, the coaching staff remains committed to their flexible, data-driven approach to ensure every player is used at the perfect moment.

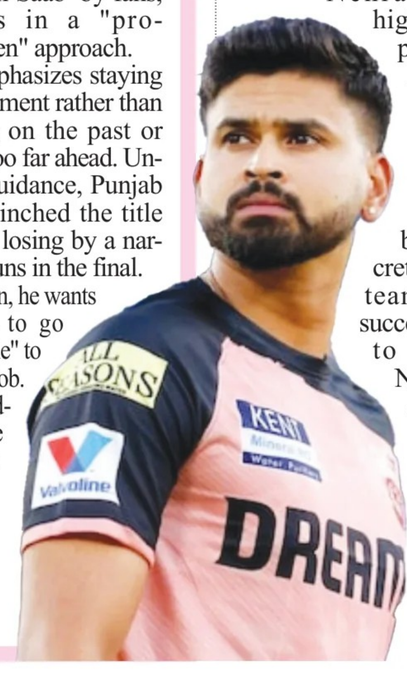
Iyer vows full throttle for Punjab glory

NEW DELHI

Shreyas Iyer has a clear mission for the ongoing IPL season - lifting the trophy. Since taking over the Punjab Kings captaincy in 2025, the star batter has transformed the team into a dominant force.

Currently leading the points table, Iyer is urging his players to stay focused and aggressive. The Mumbai-born leader, affectionately nicknamed 'Sarpanch Saab' by fans, believes in a "process-driven" approach.

He emphasizes staying in the moment rather than dwelling on the past or looking too far ahead. Under his guidance, Punjab nearly clinched the title last year, losing by a narrow six runs in the final. This season, he wants the team to go "full throttle" to finish the job. Iyer's leadership style is defined by selflessness and collaboration.



"Nehra Ji" redefines IPL coaching

NEW DELHI

Former Indian spinner Harbhajan Singh has showered praise on Ashish Nehra, describing the Gujarat Titans head coach as a "football-style" manager who never sits still. Harbhajan highlighted Nehra's unique, high-energy approach during IPL matches, noting how his constant movement and communication have become the secret sauce for his team's massive success. According to Harbhajan, Nehra's greatest strength is his incredible man-management. He explained that wherever Nehra goes, he makes everyone feel comfortable and relaxed. This infectious positive energy has helped keep the Gujarat Titans united since they joined the league in 2022. Unlike traditional cricket coaches who often watch from the dugout, Nehra is frequently seen pacing the boundary, offering real-time advice to his players. "He is like a football coach," Harbhajan remarked during an interview. "He never sits down. Throughout the entire match, he finds a player to talk to and share his deep understanding of the game." This hands-on style has clearly worked, as Nehra led the Titans to an IPL trophy in their very first season and has kept them as top contenders ever since. Beyond the tactics, Harbhajan called Nehra one of the finest human beings in the sport. By creating a dressing room that balances a relaxed atmosphere with a sharp focus on winning, Nehra has redefined coaching in the T20 era. Fans and players alike now recognize "Nehra Ji" as the tactical heartbeat of the Gujarat franchise.

INDIAN SHOOTING STARS JET OFF FOR CAIRO

A massive 71-member Indian contingent has landed in Cairo, aiming for dominance at the season's first Junior World Cup.

NEW DELHI

A hopeful squad of 58 Indian shooters and coaches departed for Cairo, ready to compete in the season's first ISSF Junior World Cup. Running from April 19 to 27, this prestigious tournament marks the beginning of the international junior circuit for rifle, pistol, and shotgun disciplines.

India is sending a massive total of 71 athletes to Egypt, making it the largest contingent among the 25 competing nations. The team will compete across 18 medal events, including 15 Olympic categories. Excitement is particularly high for the men's 25m pistol event, which is expected to join the Olympic lineup by 2032. This trip serves as a crucial warm-up for the Junior World Championships taking place in Germany this June.

The move to Cairo follows a mixed performance at the recent World Cup in Spain. While India reached seven different finals, the duo of Mukesh Nelavalli and Palak secured the team's only gold medal in the air pistol mixed team event. Other rising stars, like Sonam Uttam Maskar, showed great grit by finishing fifth in a world-class field dominated by top-ranked Chinese shooters.

With 284 athletes gathered in the Egyptian capital, the competition will be fierce. However, the large Indian squad aims to dominate the leaderboard and prove their depth in the sport. Beyond the medals, these young athletes are focused on gaining vital international experience, building the mental toughness and discipline required to represent India on the world's biggest sporting stages.

Udayan Mane wins big at South African golf

JOHANNESBURG

Indian golfer Udayan Mane returned to his winning ways, securing a dominant seven-shot victory at the Indian Golf Premier League (IGPL) Invitational in South Africa. Playing at the famous Royal Johannesburg West course, the Olympian finished with a stunning 20-under par total, marking the largest winning margin seen all season.

Mane started the final day with a comfortable lead, and despite two early bogeys, he quickly found his rhythm.

He fought back with seven birdies to card a final-round 67. This victory is a major milestone for Mane, ending a title drought that stretched back to 2021. It brings his total professional career wins to twelve and moves him up to third place in the season's overall rankings. Gaganjeet Bhullar, a frequent winner on the tour, finished in second place at 13-under par.

While Bhullar played steady golf, he struggled to keep pace with Mane's aggressive scoring. Meanwhile, Shaurya Binu grabbed headlines by firing a 63, the best single-round score of the entire tournament, helping him climb into a tie for fourth place alongside veteran Shiv Kapur.

The win also shook up the team standings. Mane's incredible performance pushed his team, Atri Mumbai, to the top of the leaderboard. As the players celebrate their success in Johannesburg, the IGPL series prepares to move to Congo for the next exciting leg of the tour. For Mane, this trophy proves he is back at the top of his game.

Tim David makes history with a quick fire century

BENGALURU

Australian powerhouse Tim David etched his name into the record books, becoming the second-fastest player to reach 1,000 runs in Indian Premier League history. Playing for Royal Challengers Bengaluru (RCB) against the Delhi Capitals, David reached the milestone in just 560 balls, trailing only Andre Russell's record of 545.

During the high-stakes match at the M. Chinnaswamy Stadium, David contributed a brisk 26 runs off 17 balls. His performance featured three boundaries and a towering six, maintaining a strike rate of over 152 before he was dismissed by spinner Axar Patel. This milestone highlights David's incredible efficiency, across his career with Mumbai Indians and RCB, he has maintained a blistering career strike rate of 177.83.

The match itself was a rollercoaster for the home fans.

After Delhi Capitals won the toss and chose to bowl, RCB's openers Phil Salt and Virat Kohli provided a strong start with a 52-run partnership. Salt was the standout performer, smashing 63 runs, but the rest of the batting lineup struggled to maintain the momentum. RCB eventually finished their 20 overs with a total of 175/8.

Delhi's bowlers played a crucial role in restricting the score. Skipper Axar Patel led from the front with impressive figures of 2/18, supported by Kuldeep Yadav and Lungi Ngidi, who also took two wickets each.

While the match remains competitive, the night belonged to Tim David, whose consistent power-hitting has solidified his reputation as one of the most dangerous finishers in world cricket.

Indian women fight back to level series

BUENOS AIRES

The Indian Women's Hockey Team has displayed incredible resilience to finish their four-match tour of Argentina with a dramatic series-leveling performance. Despite a shaky start against the world-class hosts, the Indian side rallied in the final stages to prove they can compete with the very best on international soil.

The tour began with two tough losses. In the opening games, India showed flashes of brilliance with goals from Navneet Kaur, Annu, and Ishika, but Argentina's clinical finishing led them to a 2-0 series lead. Many expected the hosts to dominate the remaining fixtures, but the Indian squad had other plans. In the third match, Navneet and Neha both converted penalty corners to secure a vital 2-1 victory, keeping Indian hopes alive.

The finale on April 17 was a masterclass in defensive grit. Both teams battled to a 0-0 draw in regulation time, leading to a high-pressure shootout. India held their nerve to win the shootout 3-2, officially evening the series. Stand-in captain Navneet Kaur expressed immense pride, noting that coming back from a two-game deficit against a top-tier opponent shows the team's true character and growth.

This tour serves as a major confidence booster for the squad as they return home to their training camp. By showing they can handle intense pressure and elite competition, the team has proven they are on the right path toward global success.

Indian sports chief slams poor track quality

NEW DELHI

In a shocking revelation, Adille Sumariwalla, spokesperson for the Athletics Federation of India (AFI), warned that over 90% of the country's athletic tracks are substandard. Speaking at a press conference, he highlighted a massive crisis in sports infrastructure, citing poor materials, faulty construction, and incorrect measurements across the nation.

Sumariwalla did not hold back, alleging that many tracks are built using cheap tire rubber instead of high-quality polyurethane. This lack of proper material results in surfaces that are the wrong thickness and potentially dangerous for athletes. He noted that the laying methodology used by many contractors simply does not meet international requirements, which could hinder the development of India's rising sports stars. For years, the AFI stayed away from certifying tracks to avoid being linked to suspicious awarding processes. However, following a "shocking" meeting with World Athletics in Tokyo, the federation has been ordered to step in. Global experts shared data that proved the situation in India is worse than previously thought.

To fix this, the AFI is launching a strict new oversight plan. They intend to vet a global list of approved vendors and intensify the testing of all existing and future tracks. The federation has already begun training experts on how to properly measure and test surfaces. By taking a more active role, the AFI hopes to ensure that Indian athletes finally have world-class facilities that match their world-class talent and hard work.

OFFICIAL PROCESS BEGINS AFTER STAR ATHLETE COMPLAINS

NEW DELHI

World Athletics Vice-President Adille Sumariwalla confirmed that a formal investigation is underway following serious allegations made by Paralympic hero Sumit Antil. Antil, a two-time gold medalist, has accused javelin coach Naval Singh of mental harassment and the frequent use of abusive language.

The complaint has sent shockwaves through the sporting community, gaining significant weight after Olympic champion Neeraj Chopra came forward to back Antil's claims. During an Athletics Federation of India (AFI) press conference, Sumariwalla acknowledged the report, stating that while the "matter is in process," he would not comment further to avoid distracting from the day's primary proceedings.

The Sports Authority of India (SAI) also clarified that while Naval Singh is not a direct employee, he is currently engaged by the AFI for the National Coaching Camp. SAI officials confirmed they are working closely with the federation to address the grievances raised by Antil and several other supporting athletes.

The situation has sparked a wider conversation about the treatment of India's top sporting talent. Ace wrestler Vinesh Phogat took to social media.

Rising star Kimi Antonelli leads Formula One

LONDON

Teenage sensation Kimi Antonelli says he feels stronger and more in control as he dominates the start of the Formula One season. The nineteen-year-old Mercedes driver currently leads the world championship, holding a narrow nine-point edge over teammate George Russell. After winning two of the first three races, the young Italian is quickly becoming the new face of the sport.

Antonelli credits his newfound confidence to the lessons learned during his rookie year. By returning to familiar tracks, he feels more relaxed and better equipped to handle the intense pressure of a race weekend. "I feel more in control of the situation now," Antonelli shared during a recent video call. He noted that having a full season of experience under his belt has allowed him to focus on small improvements and "raise the bar" with every single lap.

The season has faced unusual challenges, with recent races in Bahrain and Saudi Arabia cancelled due to regional conflict. This unexpected break gave Antonelli time to reflect on his historic achievement as the first Italian since 1953 to win back-to-back races.

Speaking during a media session, Russell said Verstappen's feelings are natural, given his success and recent criticism of Formula One changes. Kiccha Sudeep's Rs 20 crore mansion redefines luxury

Sandalwood superstar Kiccha Sudeep continues to make headlines, not just for his box-office hits, but for his stunning lifestyle. At the heart of his success is a Rs 20 crore mansion in Bengaluru, a space that blends sleek modern architecture with the actor's personal legacy.

The Vikrant Rona star's home is a testament to two decades of dominance in the film industry. Beyond its modern design, the property serves as a symbol of Sudeep's smart financial planning. The actor has built a massive net worth through a mix of high-budget films, long-running stints as the host of Bigg Boss Kannada, and various real estate investments. His passion for luxury extends well beyond his front door. Sudeep is known for his impressive car collection, featuring a Rs 3 crore Lamborghini, and his preference for high-end accessories, including a wristwatch valued at roughly Rs 1.5 crore. When traveling across India, the actor often opts for private helicopter rides, costing over Rs 15 lakh per trip, to maintain his busy schedule.

Professionally, Sudeep remains a powerhouse. Following the success of his 2025 thriller Mark, he is preparing for several major projects, including Billa Ranga Baasha and the highly anticipated Kabzaa 2. By balancing massive stardom with strategic investments, Sudeep has secured his place as one of the wealthiest and most influential figures in Indian cinema.

High Court shields Allu Arjun from AI misuse

The Delhi High Court is set to issue an interim order to protect the "personality rights" of Telugu superstar Allu Arjun. The move comes after the actor filed a lawsuit targeting the unauthorized use of his name, voice, and image across various digital and physical platforms.

Legal representatives for the Pushpa star flagged several serious concerns to Justice Tushar Rao Gedela. These include the sale of unapproved merchandise, the circulation of offensive content, and the rise of AI-powered tools. Specifically mentioned was a "Fake Call Pushpa" app, which uses AI to mimic the actor's appearance in video calls, a tool lawyers warn could be easily exploited for fraud.

The court also addressed digital intermediaries involved in selling such merchandise. One defendant, Frankly Retail Private Limited, informed the court that it had already removed the offending links and was ordered to file a compliance report within three days.

This ruling follows a growing trend in Indian law to protect celebrities from the "Wild West" of generative AI. Allu Arjun joins a list of figures, including Mohanlal, Kajol, and Sunil Gavaskar, who have successfully sought court protection against identity theft. By restraining the use of his "identifiable traits" without consent, the court aims to ensure that an actor's brand remains under their own control in an increasingly digital world.

Actress claims "dark reality" behind Bigg Boss Marathi

Actress Sonali Raut has sparked a major controversy after publicly alleging that her stint on Bigg Boss Marathi 6 left her with severe health issues. In a detailed social media post, Raut claimed that behind the show's glamorous facade lies a "dark reality" of extreme filth and negligence that caused her both physical and mental distress.

Raut specifically alleged that she contracted Scabies, a contagious skin infestation, due to the house's "unhygienic living conditions." She claimed contestants were forced to share towels and use poorly maintained washrooms. To support her claims, she shared a 39 second video showing rashes and marks across her body. The video included shocking text overlays describing litter, rotting food, and even dead rats in the bathroom areas. Furthermore, Raut alleged that her pleas to leave the show for medical reasons were edited out of the final broadcast.

The situation has now escalated into a legal battle. In April 2026, the actress reportedly sent a formal legal notice to the show's producers, citing significant health impacts. By tagging the network and demanding accountability, she has forced a public conversation regarding contestant safety and the responsibility of reality TV producers.

While the industry often thrives on high pressure drama, these allegations raise serious questions about where entertainment ends and the mistreatment of participants begins. As the story gains traction online, the makers of Bigg Boss Marathi 6 are under increasing pressure to respond to these claims regarding their on-set hygiene standards.

Vijay Deverakonda teases new epic action movie

Tollywood star Vijay Deverakonda has set the internet ablaze by revealing the first look at his latest big-budget project. Known currently by the working title #VDxShouryuv, the film promises to be an intense journey filled with raw emotion and massive scale.

Deverakonda teamed up with director Shouryuv, the filmmaker behind the hit movie Hi Nanna, for this new venture. While their previous work was a soft drama, this project looks far more aggressive. The actor described the director's vision as "wild," suggesting a story that balances deep feelings with explosive power.

The newly released poster is a visual spectacle. It shows Deverakonda in a commanding pose wearing golden armbands. He is surrounded by a gritty, mythic landscape featuring warriors, chained dogs, and ancient weapons. The most intriguing part of the poster is the tagline "All this anger was once love." This hints that the hero's rage comes from a place of deep personal loss or heartbreak. The production has hired a top-tier global crew to ensure a high-quality cinematic experience. The team includes cinematographer Alejandro Martínez and music composer Hesham Abdul Wahab, along with Hollywood-level visual effects experts.

Produced by Vyra Entertainment, the film is already being hailed as one of the most ambitious projects in Telugu cinema. Deverakonda told fans he is giving his "all" to this role. If the poster's dark and fiery tone is any indication, audiences are in for a legendary tale of fury and fate.

Dalip Tahil honors music legend Asha Bhosle

Veteran actor Dalip Tahil recently turned to social media to offer a moving tribute to the late singing icon Asha Bhosle. The legendary playback singer, affectionately known as "Asha Tai," passed away on April 12 following a brief hospitalization for a chest infection and exhaustion.

To honor her memory, Tahil shared a nostalgic video clip from his popular film Thanedaar. The footage features the classic song "Jeena Hai Toh Hans Ke Jiyo," a track that perfectly captures the spirit of resilience. While the male version is well-known, Tahil highlighted the female version voiced by Bhosle, thanking her for an "immeasurable contribution" to the global music industry.

In the video, Tahil addresses his followers directly, explaining that the song's lyrics, which encourage living life with a smile, represent his philosophy on why he continues to engage with fans through modern social media reels. The tribute resonated deeply with audiences, bridging the gap between 1980s cinema and today's digital world.

Dalip Tahil, a staple of Bollywood for over forty years, has appeared in iconic hits like Baazigar and Qayamat Se Qayamat Tak. His tribute reflects the somber mood of an industry mourning one of its greatest voices.

Music legend prince never wanted long life

As the world prepares to mark the tenth anniversary of Prince's passing, stunning new details have emerged regarding the rock legend's views on aging. Close friends and longtime collaborators reveal that the iconic artist, who died at 57, originally never intended to live past the age of 35.

LeRoy Bennett, Prince's former lighting director and confidant, shared these intimate reflections during a series of commemorative interviews. Bennett recalled a conversation when the singer was just 26, where Prince expressed a desire for a short, impactful life rather than longevity. "We are all lucky we had a couple more decades with him," Bennett remarked, highlighting the star's intense nature.

Prince, born Prince Rogers Nelson, was known for a work ethic that pushed human limits. Bennett described a grueling schedule of two-hour soundchecks and multiple back-to-back performances. The singer often tested his crew's breaking points, seeking a level of perfection that few "mortals" could match. Despite the initial friction, Bennett and Prince became inseparable, bonded by their shared vision for boundary-pushing stage designs and extravagant performances.

The "Purple Rain" singer's life ended tragically on April 21, 2016, at his Paisley Park estate due to an accidental overdose. While his death shocked the world, these new insights paint a picture of a man who lived with a constant sense of urgency. Prince may have feared growing old, but his legacy remains timeless, continuing to ignite fires in the hearts of fans a decade later.

Vikram celebrates 60th birthday with fiery teaser

Released by Sathya Jyothi Films, the clip arrived with the bold promise that "what starts as a flame ends in a blaze," instantly sparking a social media frenzy.

The teaser focuses on a dramatic silhouette and intense visuals rather than giving away the plot. The cryptic phrase "Cooking Starts Now" suggests a high-energy production currently in development. Within hours, the footage began trending globally, proving that Vikram's influence in the industry remains incredibly potent as he enters his sixth decade.

This project marks a highly anticipated reunion between Vikram and director Anand Shankar. The duo previously found success with the stylish thriller Iru Mugan, and fans are eager to see if they can recapture that magic. Adding to the excitement is a musical score by Santhosh Narayanan, known for his edgy and unique soundtracks, and cinematography by R.D. Rajasekhar.

Producers Sendhil and Arjun Thyagarajan are backing the film, which has already moved past early production rumors to become one of the year's most discussed titles. Filming is expected to begin this May, shifting the project from a birthday announcement to an active set. With a strong creative team and a "mass entertainer" vibe, Chiyaan 63 has successfully lit its first spark, leaving audiences waiting for the full fire to follow.
